Research Handbook on Digital Transformations F. Xavier Olleros, Majlinda Zhegu, 2016-09-30 The digital transition of our economies is now entering a phase of broad and deep societal impact While there is one overall transition there are many different sectoral transformations from health and legal services to tax reports and taxi rides as well as a rising number of transversal trends and policy issues from widespread precarious employment and privacy concerns to market monopoly and cybercrime They all are fertile ground for researchers as established laws and regulations organizational structures business models value networks and workflow routines are contested and displaced by newer alternatives This Research Handbook offers a rich and interdisciplinary synthesis of some of the current thinking on the digital transformations underway

Industrialization and Economic Diversification Banji Oyelaran-Oyeyinka, Kaushalesh Lal, 2022-04-19 Economic diversification entails a shift away from a single income source toward multiple income sources from an increasing spectrum of sectors and markets A persistent concern for some Asian and African economies is their reliance on commodity exports and how they are exposed to the risk of export volatility and income instability The Covid 19 pandemic and previous oil crashes have demonstrated the adverse impact on such economies This book provides a systemic analysis of sustainable economic development through economic diversification The book analyzes diversification and development experiences from comparative perspectives of Asia and Africa It also investigates determinants of export diversification differentiated by commodities dependence versus manufactured products and looks at the roles of various institutions and governance of institutions in export diversification This book will provide policy insights into how different degrees of specialisation in exports across countries have affected outcomes in terms of living standards economic growth and employment

New Industrial Urbanism Tali Hatuka, Eran Ben-Joseph, 2022-03-07 Since the Industrial Revolution cities and industry have grown together towns and metropolitan regions have evolved around factories and expanding industries New Industrial Urbanism explores the evolving and future relationships between cities and places of production focusing on the spatial implications and physical design of integrating contemporary manufacturing into the city The book examines recent developments that have led to dramatic shifts in the manufacturing sector from large scale mass production methods to small scale distributed systems from polluting and consumptive production methods to a cleaner and more sustainable process from broad demand for unskilled labor to a growing need for a more educated and specialized workforce to show how cities see new investment and increased employment opportunities Looking ahead to the quest to make cities more competitive and resilient New Industrial Urbanism provides lessons from cases around the world and suggests adopting New Industrial Urbanism as an action framework that reconnects what has been separated people places and production Moving the conversation beyond the reflexively negative characterizations of industry more than two centuries after the start of the Industrial Revolution this book calls to re consider the ways in which industry creates places sustains jobs and supports environmental sustainability in our cities This book is available as Open Access through <https://www.taylorfrancis.com>
