Evaluation and Decision Models Denis Bouyssou, Thierry Marchant, Marc Pirlot, Patrice Perny, Alexis Tsoukias, P. Vincke, 2012-12-06 1 1 Motivations Deciding is a very complex and difficult task Some people even argue that our ability to make decisions in complex situations is the main feature that distinguishes us from animals it is also common to say that laughing is the main difference Nevertheless when the task is too complex or the interests at stake are too important it quite often happens that we do not know or we are not sure what to decide and in many instances we resort to a decision support technique an informal one we toss a coin we ask an oracle we visit an astrologer we consult an expert we think or a formal one Although informal decision support techniques can be of interest in this book we will focus on formal ones Among the latter we find some well known decision support techniques cost benefit analysis multiple criteria decision analysis decision trees But there are many other ones sometimes not presented as decision support techniques that help making decisions Let us cite but a few examples When the director of a school must decide whether a given student will pass or fail he usually asks each teacher to assess the merits of the student by means of a grade The director then sums the grades and compares the result to a threshold When a bank must decide whether a given client will obtain a credit or not a technique called credit scoring is often used
