True/False

1. After the publication of the Communist Manifesto in 1848, there were no successful Communist revolutions in Europe until the Russian Revolution of 1917.
2. For most of World War I, warfare on the Western Front was characterized by static (little-moving) battle lines resulting from defensive technological advantages.
3. India and Pakistan gained independence in 1947 following a nonviolent independence movement led by Mohandas Gandhi.
4. The U.S. sought an "open-door" policy in China in the late 1800s and early 1900s because it did not have spheres of influence in China.
5. Unlike most other members of the Chinese Communist Party, Mao Zedong believed that peasants would be the backbone of the revolution.
6. In general, much of the 1920s was characterized by recovery and prosperity in Europe and the U.S.
7. The population of the earth roughly trebled in the twentieth century.
8. Forty percent of the people killed during World War II were Soviet citizens. This fueled the Soviet Union's desire to create a buffer of satellite states in Eastern Europe to protect them from Western attacks.
9. One of the most important consequences of World War II was the disintegration of European overseas empires.
10. Most countries in the world today are, to varying degrees, democratic.
11. One of the major issues on the Korean peninsula at the beginning of the twenty-first century was North Korea's nuclear weapons ambitions.
12. Germany and Great Britain passed social welfare measures in the late nineteenth century to head off the growing popularity of Marxist parties in their respective countries.
13. The Egyptian advocate of Pan-Arabism and the architect of the United Arab Republic was General Gamal Abdel Nasser.
14. The major French goal in Africa during the period from about 1870 to 1914 was to control territories stretching from the west coast to the east coast, while the major British goal was to control territories stretching from Egypt to South Africa.
15. The only nation in the Middle East that has firmly established democratic institutions is Israel.

Multiple Choice

16. Eric Hobsbawm's Age of Extremes argues that we should delineate a "short twentieth century" lasting from 1914 - 1991 that began with the outbreak of World War I and ended with the disintegration of the Soviet Union in 1991.
17. The ideology that brought about the most change throughout the world in the nineteenth century was nationalism (Napoleonic Wars, Latin American revolutions, etc.).
18. Beliefs of nineteenth century liberals included all of the following: 1) Political democracy; 2) Governments should protect basic civil rights, 3) Governments should have limited powers, 4) There should be property qualifications for voting, 5) Capitalism should be the form of economy in a liberal society (an economy free of government regulation, where the profit motive spurs economic growth and the free market ("invisible hand") sets prices and wages.
19. According to University of Hawaii Professor R. J. Rummel, roughly 38 million soldiers died in wars and 169 million civilians died in government sponsored persecutions, mass murders, and genocides during the twentieth century.
