Knowledge J. John Loughran,Amanda Berry,Pamala Mulhall,2006-01-01 There has been a growing interest in the notion of a scholarship of teaching Such scholarship is displayed through a teacher s grasp of and response to the relationships between knowledge of content teaching and learning in ways that attest to practice as being complex and interwoven Yet attempting to capture teachers professional knowledge is difficult because the critical links between practice and knowledge for many teachers is tacit Pedagogical Content Knowledge PCK offers one way of capturing articulating and portraying an aspect of the scholarship of teaching and in this case the scholarship of science teaching The research underpinning the approach developed by Loughran Berry and Mulhall offers access to the development of the professional knowledge of science teaching in a form that offers new ways of sharing and disseminating this knowledge Through this Resource Folio approach comprising CoRe and PaP eRs a recognition of the value of the specialist knowledge and skills of science teaching is not only highlighted but also enhanced The CoRe and PaP eRs methodology offers an exciting new way of capturing and portraying science teachers pedagogical content knowledge so that it might be better understood and valued within the profession This book is a concrete example of the nature of scholarship in science teaching that is meaningful useful and immediately applicable in the work of all science teachers preservice in service and science teacher educators It is an excellent resource for science teachers as well as a guiding text for teacher education

Understanding teachers professional knowledge is critical to our efforts to promote quality classroom practice While PCK offers such a lens the construct is abstract In this book the authors have found an interesting and engaging way of making science teachers PCK concrete useable and meaningful for researchers and teachers alike It offers a new and exciting way of understanding the importance of PCK in shaping and improving science teaching and learning Professor Julie Gess Newsome Dean of the Graduate School of Education Willamette University This book contributes to establishing CoRes and PaP eRs as immensely valuable tools to illuminate and describe PCK The text provides concrete examples of CoRes and PaP eRs completed in real life teaching situations that make stimulating reading The authors show practitioners and researchers alike how this approach can develop high quality science teaching Dr Vanessa Kind Director Science Learning Centre North East School of Education Durham University

Teaching Political Science to Undergraduates Laure Paquette, 2016-01-15 By 2020 half of the world's population and most university students will have a supercomputer in their pockets This revolution will affect the way students respond to higher education The university classroom must henceforth engage students and the classic lecture format alone might not be enough to do so This book answers the question how university students can learn in the classroom what they cannot learn in any other way The answer is inspired by options that are not available to political scientists in the way that they are in the laboratories for the sciences in the performances for the live arts and in the studios for visual arts as well as ideas that are already present but not widespread in the discipline problem solving and case studies as in the professional schools and simulation exercises in many other disciplines This book proposes therefore an active pedagogy for political science at a time when active pedagogy is more important than ever Prof Laure Paquette PhD has been a visiting researcher or professor in 23 countries She has advised several foreign governments as well as her own Canada and has published extensively in four languages This is her sixteenth book
