Vulnerabilities, Impacts, and Responses to HIV/AIDS in Sub-Saharan Africa Getnet Tadele,Helmut Kloos,2013-05-07 This book examines HIV AIDS vulnerabilities impacts and responses in the socioeconomic and cultural context of Sub Saharan Africa With contributions from social scientists and public health experts the volume identifies gender inequality and poverty as the main causes of the HIV epidemic in sub Saharan Africa The Health of the People : The African Regional Health Report World Health Organization. Regional Office for Africa,2006-11-20 This publication is the first to focus on the health of the 738 million people living in the 46 countries of the WHO African Region Drawing on a comprehensive range of the latest regional health statistics the report discusses the key public health and development challenges facing the continent as well looking in more detail at the issues of maternal and child health infectious diseases including HIV AIDS tuberculosis and malaria health problems that are usually associated with developed countries such as diabetes and hypertension and other noncommunicable conditions such as mental illness and injuries and the environmental causes of ill health including pollution and armed conflict The report explores the treatment diagnostic and preventive methods that work in Africa and highlights the public health success stories that can serve as models for others in the continent It finds that stronger health systems are the key to solving Africa s health problems and these can only achieved by strengthening governments stewardship role in health building on the lessons learnt from successful health care interventions and through closer collaboration between all partners World Development Report 2012 World Bank,2011-09-01 This year s World Development Report looks at

facts and trends regarding the various dimensions of gender equality in the context of the development process World Development Report 2012 The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development / The World Bank The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development / The World Bank, 2011-09-28 The lives of women around the world have improved dramatically at a pace and scope difficult to imagine even 25 years ago Women have made unprecedented gains in rights education health and access to jobs and livelihoods More countries than ever guarantee equal rights in property marriage and other domains Gender gaps in primary schooling have closed in many countries while in a third of all countries girls now outnumber boys in secondary school And more young women than men attend universities in 60 countries Women are using their education to participate more in the labor force they now make up for 40 percent of the global labor force and 43 percent of its farmers Moreover women now live longer than men in every region of the world Despite the progress gaps remain in many areas Women are more likely to die relative to males in many low and middle income countries than their counterparts in rich countries especially in childhood and during their reproductive years Primary and secondary school enrollments for girls remain much lower than for boys in many Sub Saharan African countries and some parts of South Asia as well as among disadvantaged populations Women are more likely than men to work as unpaid family laborers or in the informal sector to farm smaller plots and grow less profitable crops operate in smaller firms and less profitable sectors and generally earn less Women especially poor women have less say over decisions and less control over household resources And in most countries fewer women participate in formal politics than men and are underrepresented in the upper echelons The World Development Report 2012 Gender Equality and Development argues that closing these persistent gender gaps matters It matters because gender equality is a core development objective in its own right But it is also smart economics Greater gender equality can enhance productivity improve development outcomes for the next generation and make institutions more representative Building on a growing body of knowledge on the economics of gender equality and development the Report identifies the areas where gender gaps are most significant both intrinsically and in terms of their potential development payoff and where growth alone cannot solve the issues It then sets forth four priorities for public action Reducing excess female mortality and closing education gaps where they remain Improving access to economic opportunities for women Increasing women's voice and agency in the household and in society Limiting the reproduction of gender inequality across generations
