Begin with the Isotopes and Atomic Mass.

Click on the + symbols next to the bar with Symbol and Abundance in Nature to display the data.

You can build isotopes of different atoms by clicking on the symbol and adding or subtracting neutrons using the bowl of neutrons next to the scale. You can also click on the scale to change to Atomic Mass (amu).

Protons: 4
Neutrons: 4
Electrons: 4

Let's practice with Boron.

1) What are the symbol, atomic mass and abundance in nature of the isotope Boron - 11?

Now add one neutron to make Boron -12. Notice that the atom shakes. This indicates that the isotope is unstable. Unstable isotopes undergo radioactive decay. You will need to note this for other elements in the table below.

of ^{73}As is listed in the half life column as 73 The criteria to include data in this Table is to be the same as it has been for over sixty years It is the same criteria which are used for all data that are evaluated for inclusion in the Standard Table of Atomic Weights If a report of data is published in a peer reviewed journal that data is evaluated and considered for inclusion in the appropriate table of the biennial report of the Atomic Weights Commission As better data becomes available in the future the information that is contained in either of the Tables of Standard Atomic Weights or in the Table of Radioactive Elements may be modified It should be noted that the appearance of any datum in the Table of the Radioactive Elements is merely for the purposes of calculating an atomic mass value for any sample of a radioactive material which might have a variety of isotopic compositions and it has no implication as to the priority for claiming discovery of a given element and is not intended to The atomic mass values have been taken primarily from the 2003 Atomic Mass Table Mass values for those radioisotopes that do not appear in the 2003 Atomic mass Table have been taken from preliminary data of the Atomic Mass Data Center Most of the quoted half lives
