An alliteration poem uses words that begin with the same letter.

Black Bunny

The beautiful black bunny,
Bumped Betsy the beagle,
Breaking her basket,
Bearing bread for the eagle.
But before Betsy began,
Biking briskly away,
She saw that black bunny,
Blowing bubbles by the bay.

Poems, Equations and Prophecies Clark LaPointe, 2003 Gathered from scrapbooks diaries book margins and disk drives this collection charts the author's life from boy to man from travels to Africa from young family to middle age The predominant themes of spiritual path and scientific rationale are set in emphatic rhythms and rhymes The tone is sometimes sombre prophecy does tend to be gloomy but patches of bright sun shine in the poems Sparrows Chirping and From the Farm which delight in the appreciation of Nature Many of the poems employ dream images and words In the humorous On Our Way to Mali and in the challenging Quantitative Analysis the colour light situation and sound of the dream world creates the poem Poems Equations and Prophecies has only a few poems with equations embedded in the verses These should not distract the student of literature any more than the student of mathematics should be distracted by religious symbols They stimulate the other senses as much as imagery and alliteration but may require some background reading to fully appreciate Poems Equations and Prophecies describes visions interpreted using contemporary ideas and techniques The poem I saw you twice relies on the teachings of Carlos Castaneda to lend meaning to bizarre real life events One Foundation Trilogy questions the value of prophecy in modern society More rational means are available to help humanity choose its way through crisis as in Isaac Asimov's classic novels The Besht comes to help uses the analytical method of Carl Jung to interpret a kabbalistic vision of the Heavenly Chariot Seeds of this discovery are apparent throughout the earlier poems particularly in RESUME Lastly what collection would be complete without an enduring love song Two Worlds is at heart a love poem written to the author's wife With inconsistent equations inspired by Godel's Theorem and a prophetic connection with September

11th this poem will intrigue the poet reader and test the mathematician for time to come
