Lonely War of Capt. Willy Schultz Will Franz, 2023-02-28 Finally collected by IT S ALIVE and co published with Dark Horse The Lonely War of Capt Willy Schultz was originally serialized in the comic book Fightin Army in the 1960s An American soldier of German heritage finds himself on the wrong side of World War II in this sweeping epic This war story is at its heart an anti war story and a story about universal human nature in the hellhole of war Also includes a new final chapter drawn by Wayne Vasant and a new historical essay by Stephen R Bissette about the series This series was written by a sixteen year old Will Franz and illustrated by the already seasoned comic book creator and WWII veteran Sam Glanzman The entire story arc collected here and finally finished is one of the most dramatic moving and controversial comic book stories ever told Requiem for Reconstruction Robert D. Bland, 2025-11-05 The promise of Reconstruction sparked a transformative era in American history as free and newly emancipated Black Americans sought to redefine their place in a nation still grappling with the legacy of slavery Often remembered as a period of failed progressive change that gave way to Jim Crow and second class citizenship Reconstruction s tragic narrative has long overshadowed the resilience and agency of African Americans during this time Requiem for Reconstruction chronicles Reconstruction s legacy by focusing on key Black figures such as South Carolina congressman Robert Smalls Judge William Whipper writer Frances Rollin and others who shaped postbellum Black America Robert D Bland traces the impact of the Reconstruction generation Black Americans born between 1840 and 1870 who saw Reconstruction as a defining political movement and worked to preserve its legacy by establishing a new set of historical practices such as formulating new archives shaping local community counternarratives using the Black press to inform national audiences about Southern Republican politics and developing a framework to interpret the recent past s connection to their present world Set in South Carolina s Lowcountry a hub of Black freedom landownership and activism this book shows how late nineteenth century Black leaders educators and journalists built a powerful countermemory of Reconstruction defying the dominant white narrative that sought to erase their contributions

Women and the War Story Miriam Cooke, 2023-09-01 In a book that radically and fundamentally revises the way we think about war Miriam Cooke charts the emerging tradition of women s contributions to what she calls the War Story a genre formerly reserved for men Concentrating on the contemporary literature of the Arab world Cooke looks at how alternatives to the master narrative challenge the authority of experience and the permission to write. She shows how women who write themselves and their experiences into the War Story undo the masculine contract with violence, sexuality and glory. There is no single War Story. Cooke concludes the standard narrative and with it the way we think about and conduct war can be changed. As the traditional time-space organization and representation of war have shifted, so have ways of describing it. As drug wars, civil wars, gang wars and ideological wars have moved into neighborhoods and homes, the line between combat zones and safe zones has blurred. Cooke shows how women's stories contest the acceptance of a dyadically structured world and break down the easy oppositions: home vs. front, civilian vs. combatant, war vs. peace, victory vs. defeat that have framed and ultimately promoted war. In a book that radically and fundamentally revises the way we think about war, Miriam Cooke charts the emerging tradition of women's contributions to what she calls the War Story, a genre formerly reserved for men.

Reader's Digest Endowed Book Fund The Master of Warlock: A Virginia War Story George Cary Eggleston, The road was a winding, twisting track as it threaded its way through a stretch of old field pines. The land was nearly level at that point and quite unobstructed so that there was not the slightest reason that ordinary intelligence could discover for the roadway's devious wanderings. It might just as well have run straight through the pine lands. But in Virginia people were never in a hurry. They had all of leisure that well-settled and perfectly self-satisfied ways of life could bring to a people whose chief concern it was to live uprightly and happily in that state of existence into which it had pleased God to call them. What difference could it make to a people so minded whether the journey to the Court house, the centre and seat of county activities of all kinds, were a mile or two longer or shorter by reason of meaningless curves in the road or by reason of a lack of them? Why should they bother to straighten out road windings that had the authority of long use for their being? And why should the well-fed negro drivers of family carriages shake themselves out of their customary and comfortable naps in order to drive more directly across the pine land when the horses, if left to themselves, would placidly follow the traditional track? The crookedness of the road was a fact and Virginians of that time always accepted and respected facts to which they had been long accustomed. For that sufficient reason, Baillie Pegram, the young master of Warlock, was not thinking of the road at all but accepting it as he did the greenery of the trees and the bursting of the buds as he jogged along at a dog trot on that fine April morning in the year of our Lord 1861. He was well mounted upon a mettlesome sorrel mare, a mare with pronounced ideas of her own. The young man had taught her to bend these somewhat to his will, but her individuality was not yet so far subdued or suppressed as to lose itself in that of her master. So she suddenly halted and vigorously snorted as she came within sight of the little bridge over Dogwood Branch, where a horse and a young gentlewoman were obviously in trouble. I name the horse and the girl in that ungallant reverse order because that was the order in which they revealed themselves to the mare and her master. For the girl was on the farther side of the horse and stooping so that she could not be seen at a first glance As she heard approaching hoof beats she straightened herself into that dignity of demeanour which every young Virginia gentlewoman felt it to be her supreme duty in life to maintain under any and all circumstances Her War Story Sayre P. Sheldon,1999 This volume contains writings of or about war from the following authors Nina Macdonald Rebecca West Vera Brittain Edith Wharton Mary Borden Ellen La Motte Colette Helen Zenna Smith Dorothy Canfield Fisher Amy Lowell Willa Cather Mary Lee Elizabeth Shepley Sergeant Gertrude Stein Kathe Kollwitz Charlotte Mew Katherine Mansfield Louise Bogan Toni Morrison Jane Addams Emmeline Pethick Lawrence Edna St Vincent Millay Martha Gellhorn Frances Davis Dorothy Parker Gertrud Kolmar Virginia Woolf Dorothy Thompson Ding Ling Anna Akhmatova Olivia Manning Elizabeth Bowen Bryher H D Mary Lee Settle Elizabeth Vaughan Iris Origo Christabel Bielenberg Etty Hillesum Sara Nomberg Przytyk Charlotte Delbo Elsa Morante Mitsuye Yamada Hirabayashi Taiko Kikue Tada Doris Lessing Kathryn Hulme Kay Boyle Gwendolyn Brooks Marguerite Higgins Martha Gelhorn Mary McCarthy Grace Paley Huong Tram Lady Borton Margaret Atwood Muriel Rukeyser Susan Griffin Karla Ramirez Margaret Thatcher Molly Moore Fadwa Tuqan Dahlia Ravikovitch Meena Alexander Marta Traba Lina Magaia and Margaret Drabble The Rotarian: vol. 190, no. 6 Rotary International,2011-12-01 War Story Longarm,2004 WAR STORY is the story of a war It is a personal observation from 1964 of how the American War in Vietnam came to be It is also my first covert mission We flew through six unfriendly countries and came back alive by a combination of accident and design Nobody noticed The real events of my time have today become things that never were Media fiction has become history This is not a surprise It is the normal course of covert war I am reversing that normal course This is a message from the real world It is probably not the world in which you think you live Maybe something very important to you is not there at all I know that feeling How you deal with it is up to you This is not useless ancient history The rules of this conflict are a part of human nature They are always the same If you understand Vietnam in 1964 you will also understand the world around you You will be hard to control And that is my intention
