Kawalek,2021-01-03 This book presents findings from a process evaluation carried out at a problem solving court located in England Manchester Review Court Unlike the widely documented successes of similar international models there is no detail of Manchester Review Court in the accessible literature not in any policy document nor is there a court handbook or website outlining objectives and expected practice In adopting the seminal wine and bottle analytical framework propounded by therapeutic jurisprudence scholars and by carrying out a detailed comparative analysis comparing the court to successful international problem solving courts the original empirical data brings clarity to an overlooked area A fidelity analysis is also offered for the forerunning English and Welsh drug courts which were established during the early 2000s but then shortly fell by the wayside without satisfactory explanation for why Findings from the book shed new light on the causes of the English and Welsh drug court downfalls pending recent calls to roll out a fresh suite of problem solving courts In light of the international evidence base and national struggles in the field the book proposes a renewed UK specific fidelity matrix to forge the impetus for new practice in this area whilst accounting for past failures and acknowledging current issues Therefore this book not only breaks new ground by advancing knowledge of a significantly uncharted area but provides important inroads for helping policymakers with their strategies in tackling recidivism addiction victimisation and austerity as widespread social and human issues currently facing both Manchester and the UK more broadly Presenting significant advancements in theory policy and practice at both national and international scale the book will be a valuable resource for academics and practitioners working in the fields of Therapeutic Justice Criminal Law Criminology Criminal Justice and Socio Legal Studies Equality Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Communities and Local Government

Challenging Territoriality in Human Rights Law Wouter Vandenhoele, 2015-06-19

Human rights have traditionally been framed in a vertical perspective with the duties of States confined to their own citizens or residents. Interpretations of international human rights treaties tend either to ignore or downplay obligations beyond this territorial space. This edited volume challenges the territorial bias of mainstream human rights law. It argues that with increased globalisation and the impact of international corporations, organisations and non-State actors, human rights law will become less relevant if it fails to adapt to changing realities in which States are no longer the only leading actor. Bringing together leading scholars in the field, the book explores potential applications of international human rights law in a multi-duty bearer setting. The first part of the book examines the current state of the human rights obligations of foreign States, corporations and international financial institutions, looking in particular at the ways in which they address questions of attribution and distribution of obligations and responsibility. The second part is geared towards the identification of common principles that may underpin a human rights legal regime that incorporates obligations of foreign States as well as of non-State actors. As a marker of important progress in understanding what lies ahead for integrating foreign States and non-State actors in the human rights duty bearer regime, this book will be of great interest to scholars and practitioners of international human rights law, public international law and international relations.
