Global Trends in Human Resource Management Edward E. Lawler III, John W. Boudreau, 2015-06-24 Since 1995 USC's Center for Effective Organizations CEO

has conducted the definitive longitudinal study of the human resource management function in organizations. By analyzing new data every three years since then, the Center has been able to consistently chart changes in how HR is organized and managed while at the same time providing guidance on how professionals in the field can drive firm performance. Global Trends in Human Resource Management, the seventh report from CEO, provides the newest findings about what makes HR successful and how it can add value to organizations today. Edward E. Lawler III and John W. Boudreau conclude that HR is most powerful when it plays a strategic role, makes use of information technology, has tangible metrics and analytics, and integrates talent and business strategies. To adapt to the demands of a changing global marketplace, HR is increasingly required to span the boundaries between its function, the organization as a whole, and the dynamic environment within which it operates. This report tracks changes in a global sample of firms that shows how HR differs across Europe, the U.S., and Asia, providing an international benchmark against which to measure a company's practice and shows how HR can adapt in a rapidly changing landscape.

Disrupting Disruption David Kirp, Marjorie Wechsler, Madelyn Gardner, Titilayo Tinubu Ali, 2022. A compelling account of how US public schools can boost student achievement and close race and class opportunity gaps. In recent years, the constant drive to fix schools has bred cynicism, resentment, and at times unbridled anger. In a field where camaraderie and collegial relationships are highly valued, it is surprising that there is so little sustainable and focused collaboration among schools and school districts on how to improve. Is disruption, whether by inflicting a discipline and punish regime on our nation's schools or replacing them with charters or vouchers, the only way forward? In Disrupting Disruption, David Kirp and his coauthors look closely at three seemingly ordinary school districts: Union, Oklahoma; Union City, New Jersey; and Roanoke, Virginia, that have overcome the fragmentation, isolation, and lost learning opportunities of the public school system. These school districts resemble others across the country where many students come from low-income families. Yet they have a relentless focus on developing and supporting teachers and engaged students, constantly seeking ways to improve, the use of data to enhance learning, not punish; partnerships with parents and local organizations; and stable, supportive leadership. As the authors show, each of these districts has consistently improved graduation rates and closed the opportunity gap for Black and Latino students. With vivid narratives buttressed by solid quantitative research, Disrupting Disruption shows how every school district can improve and learn from one another.
