Introduction

Introducing Vista through Windows Easy Transfer requires installation of Vista on a computer. Before you start installing Windows Vista, please make sure you have a valid Windows Vista product key. The Windows Vista product key is a 25-character alphanumeric code that is used to activate Windows Vista. The product key is located on the Windows Vista product box or on a card that came with the product. If you are upgrading from Windows XP, the product key is located on the Windows XP product box or on a card that came with the product. If you are upgrading from Windows XP, the product key is located on the Windows XP product box or on a card that came with the product.

At Vista's first release, users of Vista Express Edition could not install Vista on a computer that was not running Windows XP. This was because Vista Express Edition was designed to be installed on a computer that was running Windows XP. However, Vista Express Edition can now be installed on a computer that is running Windows XP or Windows Vista. This is because Vista Express Edition can now be installed on a computer that is running Windows XP or Windows Vista.
