Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports, 1992 Supernovae and Nucleosynthesis David Arnett, 2020-11-10 This book investigates the question of how matter has evolved since its origin in the Big Bang from the cosmological synthesis of hydrogen and helium to the generation of the complex set of nuclei that comprise our world and our selves A central theme is the evolution of gravitationally contained thermonuclear reactors otherwise known as stars Our current understanding is presented systematically and quantitatively by combining simple analytic models with new state of the art computer simulations The narrative begins with the clues primarily the solar system abundance pattern the constraining physics primarily nuclear and particle physics and the thermonuclear burning in the Big Bang itself It continues with a step by step description of how stars evolve by nuclear reactions a critical investigation of supernova explosion mechanisms and the formation of neutron stars and of black holes and an analysis of how such explosions appear to astronomers illustrated by comparison with recent observations It concludes with a synthesis of these ideas for galactic evolution with implications for nucleosynthesis in the first generation of stars and for the solar system abundance pattern Emphasis is given to questions that remain open and to active research areas that bridge the disciplines of astronomy cosmochemistry physics and planetary and space science Extensive references are given Protostars and Planets VI Henrik Beuther, Ralf S. Klessen, Cornelis Petrus Dullemond, Thomas K. Henning, 2014-12-18 Proceedings of a conference held in Heidelberg Germany July 15 20 2013 Galaxy Formation Malcolm S.

Longair, 2023-04-10 Delineating the huge strides taken in cosmology in the past ten years this much anticipated second edition of Malcolm Longair's highly appreciated textbook has been extensively and thoroughly updated It tells the story of modern astrophysical cosmology from the perspective of one of its most important and fundamental problems how did the galaxies come about Longair uses this approach to introduce the whole of what may be called classical cosmology What's more he describes how the study of the origin of galaxies and larger scale structures in the Universe has provided us with direct information about the physics of the very early Universe

Instability and Variability of Hot-Star Winds Anthony F.J. Moffat, Stanley P. Owocki, Alex W. Fullerton, Nicole St-Louis, 2012-12-06 This specialized workshop was conceived during the workshop on Non isotropic and Variable Outflows from Stars which was held at the Space Telescope Science Institute in October 1991 At that meeting the four of us collectively decided that the time was ripe for an even more focussed discussion of the basic issues in the area of hot star wind instability and its observable manifestations Not that the big problems have been solved Rather we are currently in a phase of rapid development both with regard to the models and to the observations The key issue at this new workshop would be to decide how the time dependent structures observed in hot star winds e g

NACs DACs blobs clumps filaments shells puffs jets etc relate to radiative and other instabilities Further questions concern the role of turbulence and the nature of its driver and the effect of stellar rotation pulsation and magnetic fields on time dependent phenomena in hot star winds Of no less importance is the impact of stellar wind variability on the derivation of mass loss rates on stellar evolution and on momentum energy deposition in the interstellar medium To attain our goal of maximum confrontation in the positive sense we decided 1 to limit the workshop to the observers and theoreticians most active in this field in the world 2 to insist that virtually all participants present a talk thereby avoiding the distraction of poster sessions and 3 to allocate approximately half of the allotted time to discussion
