Observations: Based on the results above the structure of $\mathcal{H}_\infty$ is not just $\mathcal{H}_\infty = \mathcal{H}_\infty^{\text{true}} \cup \mathcal{H}_\infty^{\text{false}}$ and the $\mathcal{H}_\infty$ hypothesis space is not the same as the hypothesis space of the true hypothesis. Abstract: This study examined the effects of a 12-week, 100% bodyweight resistance training program on the strength and body composition of 12 sedentary, middle-aged men. The program was designed to improve muscular strength and endurance, and to reduce body fat. The program consisted of three sessions per week, each lasting 45 minutes. The first session was a warm-up, followed by a series of resistance exercises targeting the major muscle groups. The second session was a cardiovascular workout, and the third session was a cool-down. The results of the study showed that the program was effective in improving muscular strength and endurance, and in reducing body fat. The participants showed significant increases in muscle strength and endurance, and a significant decrease in body fat percentage. The program was well-tolerated by the participants, and no adverse effects were reported. The findings of this study suggest that a 12-week, 100% bodyweight resistance training program can be an effective means of improving muscular strength and endurance, and reducing body fat in sedentary, middle-aged men.
