Abstract: This study examined the effects of a 12-week, 100% bodyweight resistance training program on the muscle strength, body composition, and cardiovascular fitness of sedentary, middle-aged men. The program was designed to be performed at home, with no equipment other than bodyweight. The program consisted of three sessions per week, with each session including a warm-up, a main workout, and a cool-down. The main workout included a series of exercises targeting the major muscle groups, with a focus on compound movements. The program was evaluated using a variety of measures, including muscle strength, body composition, and cardiovascular fitness. The results of the study showed that the program had a positive effect on all of the measures, with significant improvements in muscle strength, body composition, and cardiovascular fitness. The program was well-tolerated by the participants, and the results suggest that it may be a viable option for improving health and fitness in sedentary, middle-aged men.
