Claiming the City in South African Literature Meg Samuelson, 2021-08-23 This book demonstrates the insights that literature brings to transdisciplinary urban studies and particularly to the study of cities of the South Starting from the claim staked by mining capital in the late nineteenth century and its production of extractive and segregated cities it surveys over a century of writing in search of counterclaims through which the literature reimagines the city as a place of assembly and attachment Focusing on how the South African city has been designed to funnel gold into the global economy and to service an enclaved minority the study looks to the literary city to advance a contrary emphasis on community conviviality and care An accessible and informative introduction to literature of the South African city at significant historical junctures this book will also be of great interest to scholars and students in urban studies and Global South studies New York ,2004-08 Reflections of a Health Inspector Lucas Kunene,2018 Reflections of a Health Inspector is Lucas Kunene s first wisdom filled book addressing the importance of human health and hygiene consciousness At the time of facing CORONAVIRUS Covid 19 this book could not be timeous and relevant It is a necessary read for individuals organisations and especially families and Health custodians across the world and their Government Departments
