Many do you think the profit margin for Anagene's cartridges has been fluctuating? Is likely attributable to the actual number of cartridges sold at this cartridge change, or because of the existing system they are using to calculate the cost?

The actual number of cartridges sold at this cartridge change was changed. The company revised the estimated number of cartridges produced and revised the calculation of the cost per unit. This led to the estimated cartridge unit cost change. Fluctuating cartridge unit cost attributable to cartridge quantity should be classified as production costs only.
