

THE SKELETON
The skeleton is the framework of the body, supporting the soft organs and tissues. It is composed of bones and cartilage. The bones are made of a hard, white, mineralized tissue called bone. The cartilage is a soft, white, fibrous tissue. The skeleton is divided into the axial skeleton (skull, spine, and rib cage) and the appendicular skeleton (arms and legs). The axial skeleton is made of 22 bones, and the appendicular skeleton is made of 54 bones. The total number of bones in the human body is 206.

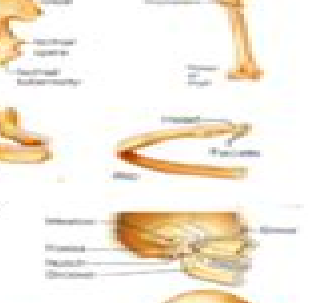

THE MUSCLES
The muscles are the soft tissue that contracts to move the bones. They are made of muscle fibers. The muscles are divided into the skeletal muscles (attached to bones) and the smooth muscles (not attached to bones). The skeletal muscles are made of striated muscle fibers, and the smooth muscles are made of smooth muscle fibers. The total number of muscles in the human body is 650.

THE JOINTS
The joints are the points where two bones meet. They allow the bones to move relative to each other. There are three main types of joints: the ball-and-socket joint, the hinge joint, and the pivot joint. The ball-and-socket joint allows for the greatest range of motion, while the hinge joint allows for flexion and extension. The pivot joint allows for rotation.

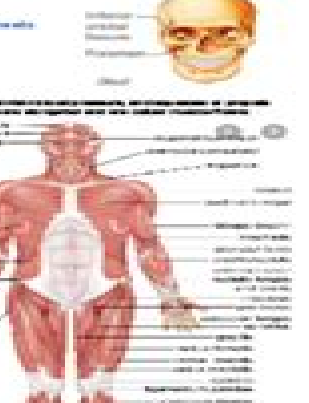

THE NERVOUS SYSTEM
The nervous system is the control system of the body. It is made of the brain, spinal cord, and nerves. The brain is the center of the nervous system, and it sends signals to the rest of the body through the spinal cord and nerves. The spinal cord is a long, thin, tube-like structure that runs down the back. The nerves are made of nerve fibers that carry signals between the brain and the rest of the body.

THE CIRCULATORY SYSTEM
The circulatory system is the system that transports blood throughout the body. It is made of the heart, blood vessels, and blood. The heart is the pump that moves the blood, and the blood vessels are the pipes that carry the blood. The blood is made of red blood cells, white blood cells, and platelets. The red blood cells carry oxygen, while the white blood cells fight infection. The platelets help the blood to clot.

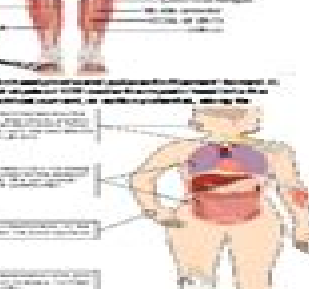

THE ENDOCRINE SYSTEM
The endocrine system is the system that produces hormones. It is made of the hypothalamus, pituitary gland, and various other glands. The hypothalamus is the part of the brain that controls the pituitary gland. The pituitary gland is a small, pea-sized gland that sits at the base of the brain. The other glands are located throughout the body, and they produce hormones that regulate the body's functions.

THE IMMUNE SYSTEM
The immune system is the system that defends the body against infection. It is made of the white blood cells, antibodies, and the lymphatic system. The white blood cells are the soldiers of the immune system, and they fight off the invading pathogens. The antibodies are proteins that bind to the pathogens, and the lymphatic system is the system that carries the white blood cells and antibodies throughout the body.

THE REPRODUCTIVE SYSTEM
The reproductive system is the system that produces offspring. It is made of the testes, ovaries, and various other glands. The testes are the male reproductive glands, and they produce sperm. The ovaries are the female reproductive glands, and they produce eggs. The sperm and eggs combine to form a zygote, which develops into a fetus.

THE SENSORY SYSTEM
The sensory system is the system that receives information from the environment. It is made of the eyes, ears, nose, tongue, and skin. The eyes see, the ears hear, the nose smells, the tongue tastes, and the skin feels. The sensory system sends information to the brain, which processes the information and sends signals to the rest of the body.
