USA,2013-08 Italy Investment and Business Guide Strategic and Practical Information Innovations in cryoconservation of animal genetic resources Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,Boes, J,Boettcher, P,Honkatukia, M,2023-01-17 The livestock sector faces a range of challenges including climate change emerging diseases competition for natural resources and evolving demand for animal source foods which is increasing globally especially in developing countries Genetic diversity of livestock is a key resource for allowing livestock keepers to address these challenges but this diversity has been in a state of decline The diminishing genetic diversity thus represents yet another obstacle for sustainable livestock production Cryoconservation i e ex situ in vitro conservation of genetic resources through gene banking provides one of the most powerful tools governments and other stakeholders have to manage genetic diversity in both the short and long term and thereby provide future generations with the tools to meet the challenges ahead Gene banking genetic resources fits within the context of the Global Plan of Action for Animal Genetic Resources which was developed and adopted by FAO Member Nations Specifically Strategic Priority 9 of the Global Plan of Action is Establish or strengthen ex situ conservation programmes and Strategic Priority 11 urges countries to Develop approaches and technical standards for conservation To assist countries in the implementation the Global Plan of Action FAO worked with experts from around the world to prepare technical guidelines In 2012 FAO published FAO Guidelines on Cryoconservation of animal genetic resources Gene banking is a long term effort that needs to be viewed in terms of decades rather than years as demonstrated by similar systems for agricultural crops The responsibility for establishing such resources lies squarely within governments roles of providing public goods and food security Gene banking of animal genetic resources is a technology intense undertaking and the associated technologies are in a continual state of research and development The livestock sector also continues to evolve rapidly Since the development and release of the previous guidelines numerous changes have taken place Critical among these is a greater appreciation of the opportunities for actively utilizing cryopreserved material to enhance management of in vivo populations rather than as simply an insurance policy to protect breeds against extinction This key development has led to further changes in gene bank management First interaction with users of the stored material has increased This in turn has created a need to involve stakeholders more closely in the management of genetic collections and to better monitor and document the processes of gene banking to ensure quality management Agriculture, Autonomous Development, and Prospects for Industrialization in Africa Emmanuel Ndhlovu,2025-03-06 The book investigates the intersection of agriculture and development in Africa and how it impacts rural industrialisation prospects It provides a comprehensive view of the position of agriculture in African socio economic activities and the agricultural sector s potential as the source for continental development and industrialisation prospects Significant research has been done on African development with a focus placed on the problematic role played by slavery colonialism and later by incompetent African leaders who failed to steer development of the type that delivers a progressive sustained and sustainable transformation of lives and societies There is limited focus on the possibility of agriculture being the potential basis of African development and the chance for industrialisation This is a matter of concern considering the dominance of agriculture as a livelihood and income source for many people on the continent In contributing to the debate on development in Africa this book aims to show how agriculture can serve as the basis for African development and industrialisation This will be achieved by i providing a detailed historical description of the position of agriculture in African socio economic activities ii outlining the trajectory of African development with a focus on agriculture innovation and mechanisation iii identifying challenges to the development of African agriculture iv exploring the opportunities for agricultural development in Africa and v providing practical and policy recommendations to improve African agriculture and make it the engine for development and industrialisation Utilising a multidisciplinary approach which combines political economy social policy financial inclusion and empowerment approaches the book also shows how engagement of youth and women digitalisation and the provision of support by public and private actors can jump start agriculture as the engine of African development and industrialisation Taken together with this conscious effort to promote a multi disciplinary discussion the book is valuable reading for students policymakers and activists interested in emerging new directions in African development thinking and research Yearbook
