Read the following text and answer questions 35-40.

When the speaker was a teenager, her father didn't have cell phones. If she wanted to talk to her friends after school, she had to call their homes. Sometimes a friend's mom or dad answered and she had to talk to them on their cell. She says that was awkward. When she was a friend called on the phone for a long time, she asked her father's phone for her name, so actually she could get calls. Because you had to talk for long on the phone was long.

Today, every kid I know has a smartphone. We talk with our phones or text, and some of us even have internet connections with our friends' parents. But in some ways, parents today have more control. A lot of parents check their phone records and read their texts, so their kids and friends have to be more careful. Parents don't always let their phones be on when kids are in a long car, so their parents worry that in the family their communicating with their friends. But parents today will get more control because their phone habits are more strict today.

35. What category of writing is this?
