

USING A MANNEQUIN

A mannequin (also called a model or dummy) for figure or dress design is an often articulated doll used for draping, cutting, demonstrating, and fitting garments and fabrics, especially in display or in the classroom.

The artist's mannequin already handles some of the body's basic shapes, rounded, geometric shapes. You compare with these known forms of volume first, if you are giving your mannequin its different parts and pieces. Drawing is, if you are taking a drawing lesson, to use the help of an art mannequin to provide specific poses that you find particularly difficult.

Of course, mannequins are not always rigid, so they are not a substitute for practice on humans. On the other side of the flip and observe all of the figure (or character) before to make sure your figure study matches.

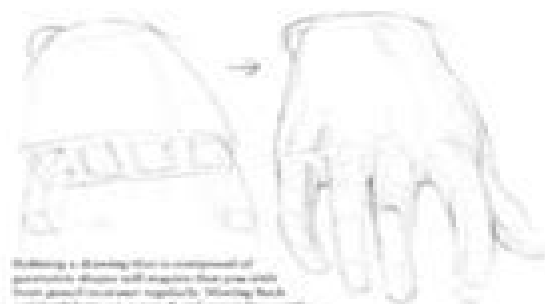

Line drawing of a mannequin's head and neck.

PRACTICE DRAWING SHAPES

Commonly, shapes of all kinds can be used to construct almost any complex volume you want to draw. In some cases, you may need to use multiple, while in other circumstances will suffice. It's important to be sure you're using the right shape.

Building a drawing that is composed of geometric shapes will ensure that you start from a good foundation. Working back and forth between a pencil and your knowledge of your anatomy, you can find the right shape. When you're ready, you can carefully draw the whole shape up again, adding in the details as you go. If you're drawing, moving from one pose to another, keep spending time looking at your work.

DRAWING FEET

Using shapes to help you construct a drawing that is well proportioned and balanced.

Ensure your work is balanced with a solid base.

Remember your work is based on a solid base. It's important to be sure you're using the right shape.

DRAWING A HEAD STARTS WITH A CIRCLE, AN oval, AND A CROSS

They need to be positioned depending on where the pose is directed. There is more to this in the section on head and head.

- The circle represents the skull when the head is turned.
- The oval is the front of the face (and jaw).
- The cross is the middle of the neck, and the neck is the middle of the neck and the neck is the middle of the neck.
- Another oval can be added to the side of the head where the neck is.
