Literature Works: Theme 3. Animals everywhere, 2000 Natural History Dioramas Sue Dale Tunnicliffe, Annette Scheersoi, 2014-12-05 This book brings together in a unique perspective aspects of natural history dioramas their history construction and rationale interpretation and educational importance from a number of different countries from the west coast of the USA across Europe to China It describes the journey of dioramas from their inception through development to visions of their future A complementary journey is that of visitors and their individual sense making and construction of their understanding from their own starting points often interacting with others e g teachers peers parents as well as media e g labels Dioramas have been hitherto a rather neglected area of museum exhibits but a renaissance is beginning for them and their educational importance in contributing to people s understanding of the natural world This volume showcases how dioramas can reach a wide audience and increase access to biological knowledge Empire and the Animal Body John Miller, 2014-10-01 Empire and the Animal Body Violence Identity and Ecology in Victorian Adventure Fiction develops recent work in animal studies eco criticism and postcolonial studies to reassess the significance of exotic animals in Victorian adventure literature. Depictions of violence against animals were integral to the ideology of adventure literature in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. However, the evolutionary hierarchies on which such texts relied were complicated by developing environmental sensitivities and reimaginations of human selfhood in relation to animal others. As these texts hankered after increasingly imperilled areas of wilderness, the border between human and animal appeared tense, ambivalent, and problematic. Earth Notes, 1991

Animals in Stone Alexandra Anna Enrica van der Geer, 2008. This magnificently illustrated study of a vast amount of South Asian animal stone sculptures provides an art history covering almost four and a half thousand years, analyzing the art, historical, archeological, and cultural context of animals in society. Film and the American Moral Vision of Nature Ronald B. Tobias, 2011-06-01. With his square, bulldoggish stature, signature rimless glasses, and inimitable smile, part grimace, part snarl, Theodore Roosevelt was an unforgettable figure imprinted on the American memory through photographs, the chiseled face of Mount Rushmore, and especially film. At once a hunter, explorer, naturalist, woodsman, and rancher, Roosevelt was the quintessential frontiersman, a man who believed that only nature could truly test and prove the worth of man. A documentary he made about his 1909 African safari embodied aggressive ideas of masculinity, power, racial superiority, and the connection between nature and manifest destiny. These ideas have since been reinforced by others: Jesse Buff, also Jones Paul Rainey Martin, and Osa Johnson, and Walt Disney. Using Roosevelt as a starting point, filmmaker and scholar Ronald Tobias traces the evolution of American attitudes toward nature, attitudes that remain to this day remarkably conflicted, complex, and instilled with dreams of empire. Humans, Among Other Classical Animals Ashley Clements, 2021. From the European assimilation and destruction of the New World to our present environmental destruction of our shared world, Humans among Other Classical Animals demonstrates how the Classics have been implicated in the structures of thought that have ultimately led us to our present historical moment. The Amazing Life of Azaleah Lane Nikki Shannon Smith, 2020. Azaleah can't wait for her class field trip to the National Zoo in Washington, D.C., especially when her teacher announces the chance to earn extra credit. But when Azaleah gets home, she quickly realizes extra credit isn't as easy as she thought. Azaleah's younger sister, Tiana, can't find Greenie, her stuffed animal, and she's sure he's been stolen. With Mama at the restaurant and Daddy at work on a big case, it seems Azaleah is the only one available to track down the stolen stuffie. Can Azaleah get to the bottom of the mystery in time to finish her extra credit? Special Class Programs for Intellectually Gifted Pupils Mildred Coen Robeck, 1968. The Educational Role of the Museum Eilean Hooper-Greenhill, 1999. Grounded in the strengths of its first edition, this book has been restructured to include new papers and recent articles and presents front-running theory and practice as it addresses the relationships of museums and galleries to their audiences. Writing Winning Reports Sandy Woolley, 2005. Written reports have been a favorite format for sharing knowledge in schools since the invention of paper and pen. Writing Winning Reports stresses not only producing a polished report but also gaining important research and organizational skills in the process It presents guidelines for 15 broad research topics Each unit provides an outline of how to organize the report a point breakdown for grading a list of alternative projects Guidelines are open enough to allow for individual creativity but organized to assure successful presentation This is easy to use format is the beginning of winning reports Book jacket Stuffed Animals and Pickled Heads Stephen T. Asma, 2003-05-01 The natural history museum is a place where the line between high and low culture effectively vanishes where our awe of nature our taste for the bizarre and our thirst for knowledge all blend happily together But as Stephen Asma shows in Stuffed Animals and Pickled Heads there is more going on in these great institutions than just smart fun Asma takes us on a wide ranging tour of natural history museums in New York and Chicago London and Paris interviewing curators scientists and exhibit designers and providing a wealth of fascinating observations We learn how the first museums were little more than high toned side shows with such garish exhibits as the pickled head of Peter the Great's lover In contrast today's museums are hot beds of serious science funding major research in such fields as anthropology and archaeology Rich in detail lucid explanation telling anecdotes and fascinating characters Asma has rendered a fascinating and credible account of how natural history museums are conceived and presented It's the kind of book that will not only engage a wide and diverse readership but it should best of all send them flocking to see how we look at nature and ourselves in those fabulous legacies of the curiosity cabinet The Boston Herald
