Share Engage Educate Vinesh Chandra, 2019-12-09 There is no doubt that our world is becoming increasingly more connected through digital technologies For meaningful participation in this environment we need to be digitally literate yet there are many children in developing countries who have yet to touch a computer because of social disadvantage For these children schools are the only place where they can build this capacity Regrettably many schools in these communities are under resourced They do not have sufficient and relevant library books let alone digital resources As a consequence teaching and learning strategies have remained unchanged for decades The field of critical pedagogy evolved through the initial work of Paulo Freire This theory is underpinned by critical thinking about societal issues followed by action and reflection When citizens are armed with such knowledge and skills they can positively impact on the lives of the underprivileged Critical pedagogy however is still struggling to find its meaningful place particularly in higher education This is largely due to the lack of effective strategies and critical educators Share Engage Educate is an auto ethnography which presents accounts of the initiatives that were undertaken to promote print and digital literacy in rural and remote schools in eight developing countries It highlights the experiences of school leaders teachers university staff and students and globally minded citizens working alongside local communities to enhance the quality of education for over 15 000 children in these schools This book explores how critical pedagogy can unfold in educational spaces through knowledge sharing engaging and in the process educating all stakeholders

The Coffin of Heqata Harco Willems, 1996 The coffin published in this book represents a type that had some popularity in southern Upper Egypt in the early Middle Kingdom but which despite its extraordinary decoration had not attracted attention so far The most striking feature of the decoration is that the object friezes the pictorial rendering of ritual implements usually found on coffin interiors of the period also include complete ritual scenes some of which are attested only here Apart from this the decoration includes an extensive selection of the religious texts known as the Coffin Texts The author first studies the archaeological context and dating of the coffin and attempts a reconstruction of the construction procedures from his technical description of the monument The detailed account of the decoration in the rest of the book interprets the ritual iconography and offers fresh translations and interpretations of the Coffin Texts A methodological innovation is that he regards the scenes and texts not as individual decoration elements but as components of an integral composition The background of this composition is argued to be a view of life in the hereafter in which the deceased is involved in an unending cycle of ritual action which reflects the funerary rituals that were actually performed on earth On the one hand these netherworldly rituals aim at bringing the deceased to new life by mummification on the other the newly regenerated deceased partakes in embalming rituals for gods representing his dead father Osiris or Atum These gods in their turn effectuate the deceased's regeneration The entire process results in a cycle of resuscitation in which the afterlife of the deceased and of the father gods are interdependent The sociological bias of this interpretation with its emphasis on kinship relations differs significantly from earlier attempts to explain Egyptian funerary religion The Encyclopaedic Dictionary Robert Hunter, 1896
