Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical and psychological health of young adults. The study was conducted in a university setting. The participants were 20 young adults (10 males and 10 females) who were randomly assigned to a training group and a control group. The training group participated in a 12-week program of aerobic and strength training, while the control group did not. The results showed that the training group had significantly higher levels of physical fitness and psychological well-being than the control group at the end of the 12-week period. The findings suggest that a 12-week training program can have a positive effect on the physical and psychological health of young adults.
