

REVIEW OF THE TOURISM PRODUCT

Definition

A tourism product is a concept that is made up of many components, such as tourist attractions, provision of means of transport, lodging, and its associated facilities and sources of entertainment (Morton, 2018).

According to the United Nations World Tourism Organization (UNWTO) (n.d.), a tourism product is a combination of tangible and intangible elements such as natural, cultural and man-made resources, attractions, facilities, services, and activities around a specific center of interest, which represents the core of the destination marketing mix and creates an overall visitor experience including emotional aspects for the potential customer.

Components

These components may be provided by one company or a group of companies in the tourism industry. It also involves the tourist enjoying these products from the time they step out of their houses until the time they get back home (Badilla, 2015).

These are the components of tourism products (Haneef, 2017):

- Attractions – These are in varying forms and types, ranging from natural to man-made, but it is important to ensure that the attractions remain constantly updated with the amenities of the destinations.
- Accommodation – This refers to any settlement or a convenient arrangement where the tourists can stay.
- Accessibility – This encompasses roads, railway, airports, and various transport facilities.
- Amenities – These are structures and facilities that need to be built for the comfort and convenience of tourists during their trips.
- Activities – These are the leisure and amusements done by the tourists.
