institutions in Pakistan notorious for its corruption and brutality In both colonial and postcolonial contexts directives to confront security threats have empowered law enforcement agents while the lack of adequate reform has upheld institutional weaknesses This exploration of policing in Karachi Pakistan s largest city and financial capital reveals many colonial continuities Both civilian and military regimes continue to ensure the suppression of the policed via this institution itself established to militarily subjugate and exploit in the interests of the ruling class However contemporary policing practice is not a simple product of its colonial heritage it has also evolved to confront new challenges and political realities Based on extensive fieldwork and almost 150 interviews this ethnographic study reveals a distinctly postcolonial condition of policing. Mutually reinforcing phenomena of militarisation and informality have been exacerbated by an insecure state that routinely conflates combatting crime, maintaining public order and ensuring national security. This is evident not only in spectacular displays of violence and malpractice but also in police officers' routine work. Caught in the middle of the country's armed conflicts, their encounters with both state and society are a story of insecurity and uncertainty.

Globalization, Nationalism, and Music Education in the Twenty-First Century in Greater China Wai-Chung Ho, 2025-10-01

Globalization, Nationalism and Music Education in the Twenty-First Century in Greater China examines the recent developments in school education and music education in Greater China: Mainland China, Hong Kong and Taiwan, and the relationship between and integration of national cultural identity and globalization in their respective school curriculums. Regardless of their common history and cultural backgrounds, in recent decades these localities have experienced divergent political, cultural and educational structures. Through an analysis of the literature, official curriculum documents, approved music textbooks and a survey questionnaire, and in-depth interviews with music teachers, this book also examines the ways in which policies for national identity formation and globalization interact to complement and contradict each other in the context of music education in respect to national and cultural values in the three territories. Wai Chung Ho's substantive research interests include the sociology of music, China's education system and the comparative study of East Asian music education. Her research focuses on education and development with an emphasis on the impact of the interplay between globalization, nationalization and localization on cultural development and school music education.
