2014 Grade 1 agricultural Science Paper 1

Gabriela Steier, Kiran K. Patel

2014 Grade1agricultural Science Paper 1:

Capacity-Building and the Water-Energy-Food Nexus Maureen Papas,2023-12-22 This book critically explores how the water energy food nexus can be used as an organising framework to address environmental degradation and promote sustainable development Building effective and sustainable mechanisms to tackle environmental problems requires in depth understanding of relationships between natural resources going beyond conventional policy and siloed decision making The water energy food nexus has been promoted as a conceptual framework and management tool to facilitate integrated planning and practical linkages to support sustainable development The author opens this book with an overview of capacity building and reviews the significance of the water energy food nexus bringing in links to the 2030 Agenda Climate change is highlighted as a key consideration in any conversation about natural resource use and case studies from Japan India and China are utilised to show that whilst long term sustainable development practices are being implemented the environmental challenges across the region raise concerns about institutional capacity economic sustainability and future of the region Finally through the lens of capacity building the book suggests that whilst the water energy food nexus may provide a new approach to sustainable development it will not be enough to achieve long term sustainability or extend to the lives of those most affected This section is unchanged This book will be of interest to students scholars and practitioners working in the water energy agriculture sectors and keen to adopt a transdisciplinary approach to public policy comparative politics and international relations It will also be a valuable resource to those working in governmental organisations and NGOs involved in capacity building and development

 Practice Sets 1 5 Foreign Direct Investment in Agriculture Jan Schüpbach, 2015-10-07 Foreign direct investment in agriculture and land has increased substantially since the 2007 2008 food price crisis However there is a severe lack of quantitative evidence on its economic impact Therefore the primary goal of this study was to collect and analyze empirical evidence in order to better understand the potential benefits and pitfalls of such investments and related processes of agricultural commercialization In particular the study tests the effect of two strategies for including smallholder farmers into modern food supply chains 1 Outgrower schemes i e a type of contract farming whereby small scale farmers produce crops for large scale farming enterprises 2 Wage employment on large scale estates The central part of the study looks at one specific investment project in the Zambian sugar cane sector This sectoral focus was supplemented by a broader cross sectoral analysis of a large nationally representative panel survey Overall the evidence suggests that large scale investments by foreign as well as domestic companies and especially the model of cooperation with smallholder farmers in outgrower schemes can indeed have positive and significant effects on the income and wealth of rural households Development of agricultural mechanization in Ghana Cossar, Frances, Houssou, Nazaire, Asante-Addo, Collins, 2016-05-06 This paper characterizes the network of tractor service providers in Ghana Using the case of Ejura Sekye dumase district this research examines the implications of the adoption of mechanical technology in agriculture for farmers and institutions based on perspectives that go beyond the suppliers and users of mechanization services alone The results suggest that in addition to rising population density and favorable access to local and regional markets the current pattern of use of tractors by farmers in Ejura district emerged from favorable historical and institutional factors The current arrangement involving a network of private tractor owners providing tractor hire services to a broad set of farmers draws upon the legacy of an earlier institutional intervention and is sustained organizationally through kinship and other existing social relationships within and outside the district More over the expansion of tractor use has created a set of new roles and relationships within the network Participation in the network is affected by various factors including farmer s access to capital and knowledge experience and contacts This privately operated network is significantly more efficient and provides small scale farmers with considerably better access to plowing service than did previous government managed systems Further develop ment of the tractor service sector is likely to improve the quality of mechanization offered to smallholder farmers enhance bargaining power for farmers seeking such services and reduce structural weaknesses within the net work Routledge International Handbook of Rural Studies Mark Shucksmith,David L. Brown,2016-05-20 Rural societies around the world are changing in fundamental ways both at their own initiative and in response to external forces The Routledge International Handbook of Rural Studies examines the organisation and transformation of rural society in more developed regions of the world taking an interdisciplinary and problem focused approach Written by leading social scientists from many countries it addresses emerging issues and challenges in innovative and provocative ways to inform future policy This volume is organised around eight emerging social economic and environmental challenges Demographic change Economic transformations Food systems and land Environment and resources Changing configurations of gender and rural society Social and economic equality Social dynamics and institutional capacity Power and governance Cross cutting these challenges are the growing interdependence of rural and urban the rise in inequality within and between places the impact of fiscal crisis on rural societies neoliberalism power and agency and rural areas as potential sites of resistance The Routledge International Handbook of Rural Studies is required reading for anyone concerned with the future of rural areas Cyanobacteria and Cyanotoxins Ana M. Cameán,Angeles Jos,2020-04-15 Cyanobacteria are a group of ubiquitous photosynthetic prokaryotes Their occurrence has been increasing worldwide due to anthropogenic activities and climate change Several cyanobacterial species are able to synthesize a high number of bioactive molecules among them cyanotoxins microcystins cylindrospermopsin nodularin etc which are considered a health concern For risk assessment of cyanotoxins more scientific knowledge is required to perform adequate hazard characterization exposure evaluation and finally risk characterization of these toxins This Special Issue Cyanobacteria and Cyanotoxins New Advances and Future Challenges presents new research or review articles related to different aspects of cyanobacteria and cyanotoxins and contributes to providing new toxicological data and methods for a more realistic risk assessment Farm transition and indigenous growth Houssou, Nazaire,Chapoto, Anthony,Asante-Addo, Collins,2016-01-15 This paper characterizes the transition from small scale farming and the drivers of farm size growth among medium and large scale farmers in Ghana The research was designed to better understand the dynamics of change in Ghana s farm structure and contribute to the debate on whether Africa should pursue a smallholder based or large scale oriented agricultural development strategy The results suggest a rising number of medium scale farmers and a declining number of smallholder farmers in the country a pattern that is consistent with a changing farm structure in the country s agricultural sector More important findings show that the rise to medium and large scale farming is significantly associated with successful transition of small scale farmers rather than entry of medium or large farms into agriculture reflecting small scale farmers successfully breaking through the barriers of subsistence agriculture into more commercialized production systems The findings in this paper also suggest that some of the factors thought to be important for change in farm structure are no obstacle to farm size growth even though they may foster transition Notably the results here diverge from the patterns observed in Zambia and Kenya which indicate that the emergent farmers came mostly from the urban elite Unfortunately past and current policy discussions have not featured these emergent farmers sufficiently in the quest to transform agriculture in Ghana Government should capitalize on these emergent farmers who have a demonstrated ability to graduate productively as it strives to address challenges in the smallholder sector

International Food Law and Policy Gabriela Steier, Kiran K. Patel, 2017-08-08 International Food Law and Policy is the first interdisciplinary piece of academic literature of its kind with a comprehensive reader friendly approach to teaching the major aspects of food regulation law policy food safety and environmental sustainability in a global context The sections are grouped by continents and focus on a range of cross disciplinary subjects such as public health international food trade the right to food intellectual property and global regulatory aspects of food production With its systematic approach this book will be a valuable resource both for professionals working in food regulation and anyone interested in the subject It provides a solid foundation for courses and master s programs in environmental management food law policy and regulation and sustainable development around the world
