importance of early intervention with a child's mental health and he listens to not only parents but children as they discuss how they're seeing the world and how it impacts them on a daily basis. Our oldest child needed intervention with ADHD at the age of 6 and Dr. Simon was informative, supportive, and most of all, willing to help our child without expensive tests and long wait times. Today many physicians are reluctant to intervene early or they completely dismiss concerns of parents and children as normal kid stuff when we need guidance and help for our children before the concern becomes an emergency or worse a tragedy. Dr. Simon recognizes and understands this need and is always hands-on with our kids when we express a need or a concern about their mental health.

Riggs, Romaine, Kathleen Kemp, 2023. The Juvenile Justice Anger Management JJAM Treatment for Girls is a manualized anger management and aggression reduction treatment designed for adolescent girls and young women placed in residential juvenile justice facilities. This gender-specific treatment is an 8-week cognitive behavioral group intervention that consists of 16 90-minute sessions. The JJAM Facilitator Manual includes a user-friendly session-by-session guide along with the accompanying workbook materials for youth participants. JJAM addresses the unique gender and developmental needs of girls and young women in the juvenile justice system such as the link between relational and physical aggression, the importance of strengthening and repairing damaged relationships, and the need to transfer skills learned in a facility to day-to-day life in the community following discharge. Session activities elicit real-life examples from participants so that activities and content can be tailored to the characteristics, needs, and interests of the specific girls and young women in each group. JJAM was developed through a rigorous research process and is identified as an empirically based program and empirically supported treatment. Studies have shown that JJAM significantly reduced anger and aggression among girls in residential juvenile justice facilities, making it an essential resource for any clinician working on anger management treatment.
