Credit Rating Governance Ahmed Naciri, 2015-01-30 Credit rating agencies play an essential role in the modern financial system and are relied on by creditors and investors on the market. In the recent financial crisis their power and reliability were often questioned yet a simple rating downgrade could threaten to bankrupt a whole country. This book examines the governance of credit rating agencies as expressed by their ability to fairly ethically and consistently assign higher rates to issuers having lesser default risks. However factors such as the drive for increased revenue and market share the inadequate business model the inadequate methodology of assessing risk opacity and inadequate internal monitoring have all been identified as critical governance failures for credit agencies. This book explores these issues and proposes some potential solutions and improvements. This will be of interest to researchers and advanced students of corporate finance finance financial economics risk management investment management and banking Naval War College Review, 2014

Natural resources oil and gas in particular comprise the country's single largest revenue earner but the 170m person economy also has seen significant activity in recent years into the industrial financial telecoms and as of 2013 power sectors. Hydrocarbons reserves have traditionally attracted the vast majority of domestic and foreign investment in Nigeria. Oil production capacity has remained at roughly 2.5m barrels per day bpd since the start of 2000 although output fell to 2.2m bpd on average in 2012. Still the country has long operated below its true potential and government efforts in recent years have sought to increase local value addition by boosting refining capacity and minimising theft and bunkering. The country's banking sector has been through a significant shake up as well resulting in a far healthier and more robust financial industry while reforms in the telecoms and agricultural sectors have strengthened medium term prospects Public Management Carolyn J.

Hill, Laurence E. Lynn Jr, 2015-09-23 Managing in the public sector requires an understanding of the interaction between three distinct dimensions administrative structures organizational cultures and the skills of individual managers Public managers must produce results that citizens and their representatives expect from their government while fulfilling their constitutional responsibilities In Public Management Thinking and Acting in Three Dimensions authors Carolyn J Hill and Laurence E Lynn Jr argue that one size fits all approaches are inadequate for dealing with the distinctive challenges that public managers face Drawing on both theory and detailed case studies of actual practice the authors show how public management that is based on applying a three dimensional analytic framework structure culture and craft to specific management problems is the most effective way to improve the performance of America s unique scheme of governance in accordance with the rule of law The book educates readers to be informed citizens and prepares students to participate as professionals in the world of public management 2012-2013 College Admissions Data Sourcebook West Edition ,
