

Accounting Internship Report: Insights and Reflections

Introduction to My Accounting Internship Experience Last summer, I did an accounting internship at Leshi Internet Information and Technology Corp in Beijing, China. I worked as an accountant assistant in the finance department, and it was a great opportunity for me to pursue a future career in the accounting field. Upon the completion of my internship, I gained professional experience while applying my knowledge in the real world. I understand the importance of accounting activities. My internship also taught me lots of useful skills that I can use in my future career life.

Challenges and Discoveries at the Start At first, the internship was a challenge for me because I had no previous experience with any job. I did not have a basic idea of how the real accounting process works. My manager set basic requirements and expectations for me, and I tried to understand my major task for each day. I also thought that my work might be very repetitive. It turned out that I was totally wrong as I began to work. Since I'm dealing with problems with numbers, I always need to be patient and careful and have strong problem-solving skills. I realized that all accountants need strong expertise and professional skills in their work.

Daily Tasks and Personal Growth Through the internship, I was able to prepare daily financial reports, such as balance sheets, income statements, and invoices. My duties included recording and posting journal entries for every transaction that happened each day. More importantly, I used my knowledge from the accounting class to the preparation of journal entries and financial reports, such as the balance sheet is prepared from the trial balance, and the trial balance is prepared after transactions have been journalized and posted to the general ledger. My understanding of accounting operations and process was enhanced after I prepared the financial reports by myself because I participated in every aspect of the accounting activity. In addition, I was given lots of opportunities to learn to analyze actual financial data by using different analyzing software applications. Other than that, my duties also include organizing bank receipts, summarizing any concerns to the management, ensuring the accuracy of documentation for each transaction, and maintaining proper records of book and financial transactions. As for the technical skills, I was allowed to practice my Microsoft Excel, Access, and other computer skills that I learned at school and at work. I also developed strong communication skills through the internship as I learned to work as a team with my manager and colleagues. My internship experience built me a sense of responsibility. I always possess a positive attitude to learn new things and respect my co-workers.

Overcoming Challenges and Lessons Learned During my internship, I faced lots of problems while working, and sometimes I felt overwhelmed when I had lots of work to do in a day. It was hard to manage my time when I had different tasks at the same time. Therefore, I started to make small goals by prioritizing work in order of importance. I also made a schedule at the beginning of each day and organized my work in advance. My internship helped me to find the importance of strong time management skills in the workplace. Effective time management skills improve both productivity and efficiency. My quality of work was also enhanced by planning ahead. One important lesson that I also learned from my
