Transatlantic Regulation

Susanne Lütz, 2016-03-16 The European and American economies are closely interlinked as mutually important investment and trading partners The growing intensity of economic interdependence has spurred the transatlantic coordination of rules and standards that can lead to the formation of non tariff barriers to transatlantic commerce But despite impressive government to government efforts to eliminate market barriers the E U and the U S have frequently clashed over each other s regulatory policies The aim of this book is to explore the domestic sources of cooperation or conflict in transatlantic regulation The book analyses the role of domestic factors through three theoretical lenses that are well established in the study of multilevel systems the principal agent approach the two level game metaphor and through a wider concept of institutionalism which emphasises the links between societal interests and regulatory ideas with institutional frameworks The book states that domestic factors embody more obstacles than opportunities for horizontal coordination It is argued that transatlantic relations will likely undergo a double movement of being simultaneously shifted upwards to become part of the global governance architecture and downwards towards broader involvement of legislators in regulatory matters Hence transatlantic regulation might in the near future be shaped more by political leaders rent seeking interest groups and legislators than by networks of technocrats This book was published as a special issue of the Review of International Political Economy

Handbook of Accounting and Development Trevor Hopper, 2012-01-01 The Handbook of Accounting and Development examines the major areas of accounting and development financial reporting management control taxation education in both the public and private sectors The four editors have written two of the chapters including the Introduction which is more substantial and useful than an average introduction The remaining 14 chapters are contributed by 22 distinguished authors who work in nine different countries The quality of the writing is high throughout The Handbook should be warmly welcomed by policy makers and academics especially those of us who have not paid enough attention to such matters in the past Christopher Nobes Royal Holloway University of London UK Trevor Hopper and his colleagues provide a central point of reference for research into accounting and development Definitive chapters from internationally recognised authors including Marcia Annisette Kerry Jacobs Chris Poullaos Brendan O Dwyer Chibuike Uche and Jeffrey Unerman cover the full range of issues from the role of capital markets in development through accounting professionalization to taxation and transfer pricing Contributions from authors working for donors and non governmental organisations provide a useful practical dimension that builds on the more academic chapters Christopher Napier Royal Holloway University of London UK This innovative and informative Handbook brings together leading international researchers on accounting and development to review empirical evidence issues policies and practices both past and present The perspectives of the expert contributors reflect the strong growth of research on the topic as accounting is increasingly recognised as an important factor in development The book draws commentary and analyses together to inform future research practice and policy and raises awareness of the actual and potential role of accounting in formulating and executing development policy With theoretical and empirically focused chapters this Handbook will appeal to academics and postgraduate students in accounting and development studies practitioners policymakers and development partners

Conventional wisdom says that the world is heading for a major water crisis By 2050 global population will increase from 7 billion to a staggering 9.5 billion and the demands this will place on food and water systems will inevitably push river basins over the edge The findings from this book present a different picture While it is convenient to visualize an inevitable global water and food crisis in which increasing demands result in increasing poverty food insecurity and conflict the reality is far more nuanced and revolves around the politics of equitable and sustainable development of resources The first part of this book provides detailed insight into conditions of water flows within nine river basins In the second part authors summarize and re-analyze the outcome of the nine basins providing a coherent global picture of water water productivity and development They assess the impacts of variations of these attributes on development and approaches for poverty alleviation and explore the institutional factors that support or obstruct change How people will manage river systems while protecting vital ecosystem functions will make the difference between catastrophe and survival As Prof Asit Biswas points out the world is facing a water crisis not because of physical scarcity of water but because of poor management practices in nearly all countries of the world The book is based on the four years 2006-2010 of extensive research into the state of ten of the world's major river basins carried out under the CGIAR Challenge Program for Water and Food's Basin Focal Project. This book was published as a special issue of Water International. Earnings Management Joshua Ronen, Varda Yaari, 2008-08-06. This book is a study of earnings management aimed at scholars and professionals in accounting, finance, economics, and law. The authors address research questions including: Why are earnings so important that firms feel compelled to manipulate them? What set of circumstances will induce earnings management? How will the interaction among management, boards of directors, investors, employees, suppliers, customers, and regulators affect earnings management? How to design empirical research addressing earnings management? What are the limitations and strengths of current empirical models?
