Will Miami Survive? Kathleen Sullivan Sealey, Ray King Burch, P.-M. Binder, 2018-05-18 This SpringerBrief uses a complexity perspective to integrate risk finance and ecological issues in Miami USA It focuses on how the modern financial system particularly the mortgage market perceives and manages the risk of climate change Authors Kathleen Sealey Ray King Burch and P M Binder offer the case study of South Florida to illustrate how landscapes can be either re purposed to function ecologically when residents relocate or rebuilt to reduce the threat of future flooding the tools needed to make these decisions and how financial systems view and influence them While the need to integrate financial markets into coastal and environmental management is increasingly recognized the difficulty of this task is made greater by the speed of financial innovation and the obscurity and complexity of its practices This book will discuss the innovative Southeast Florida Regional Climate Compact and the success of public private partnerships in planning and adapting to sea level rise but also the broad disconnect with the cash and credit driven real estate market of South Florida The book presents an interdisciplinary approach to the understanding of the coupled human including finance and natural systems in coastal cities thus breaking new ground in the approach towards sustainability research and education The final chapter introduces the social component of resilience which include pre disaster outreach with and the potential for decision theory to help people understand and manage risk East Asia Pacific at Work World Bank,2014-05-07 The unprecedented progress of East Asia Pacific is a triumph of working people Countries that were low income a generation ago successfully integrated into the global value chain exploiting their labor cost advantage In 1990 the region held about a third of the world s labor force Leveraging this comparative advantage the share of global GDP of emerging economies in East Asia Pacific grew from 7 percent in 1992 to 17 percent in 2011 Yet the region now finds itself at a critical juncture Work and its contribution to growth and well being can no longer be taken for granted The challenges range from high youth inactivity and rising inequality to binding skills shortages A key underlying issue is economic informality which constrains innovation and productivity limits the tax base and increases household vulnerability to shocks Informality is both a consequence of stringent labor regulations and limited enforcement capacity In several countries de jure employment regulations are more stringent than in many parts of Europe Even labor regulations set at reasonable levels but poorly implemented can aggravate the market failures they were designed to overcome This report argues that the appropriate policy responses are to ensure macroeconomic stability and in particular a regulatory framework that encourages small and medium sized enterprises where most people in the region work Mainly agrarian countries should focus on raising agricultural productivity In urbanizing countries good urban planning becomes critical Pacific island countries will need to provide youth with human capital needed to succeed abroad as migrant workers And across the region it is critical to formalize more work to increase the coverage of essential social protection and to sustain productivity To this end policies should encourage mobility of labor and human capital and not favor some forms of employment for instance full time wage employment in manufacturing over others either implicitly or explicitly Policies to increase growth and well being from employment should instead reflect and support the dynamism and diversity of work forms across the region Modern Economic Regulation Christopher Decker,2023-06-08 Brings economic regulation to life by tracing theoretical insights through to real world applications in eight essential regulated sectors The Merger Mystery Geoff Meeks,J. Gay Meeks,2022-06-23 Statistical studies over the last forty five years show that although there are success stories very many mergers and acquisitions do not result in the increased operating profits that economics textbooks would lead one to expect As consultancy McKinsey have put it Anyone who has researched merger success rates knows that roughly 70% fail Yet mysteriously M A activity has boomed across the globe with a forty fold increase in deals done each year now compared with four decades ago in spite of the adverse general evidence. How can it be that talented energetic highly skilled law abiding income maximising participants in the M A market will often promote mergers that lead to no operating gains frequently with adverse effects on the wider economy too? Drawing on findings from a wealth of statistical analyses and case evidence from many businesses the book presents answers to this merger mystery. In a synthesis of ideas from several disciplines solutions are detected in misaligned incentives distorted financial engineering and information asymmetry. By revealing how weaknesses at multiple points can interact and cumulate to produce inefficient outcomes the discussion serves as a corrective to the overwhelmingly positive tone of most commentary on M A whilst also advocating changes in participants' contracts in taxation and in regulation which could significantly reduce the number of mergers that fail. Designed to be accessible to a wide readership the book will be of interest to investors to M A practitioners and commentators to researchers and students of economics political economy finance management and accounting and importantly to policy makers working in these areas.
