Trading Spaces Emma Hart, 2024-07-06 Looks at the shift from the marketplace as an actual place to a theoretical idea and how this shaped the early American economy When we talk about the economy the market is often just an abstraction While the exchange of goods was historically tied to a particular place capitalism has gradually eroded this connection to create our current global trading systems In Trading Spaces Emma Hart argues that Britain's colonization of North America was a key moment in the market's shift from place to idea with major consequences for the character of the American economy Hart's book takes in the shops auction sites wharves taverns fairs and homes of seventeenth and eighteenth century America places where new mechanisms and conventions of trade arose as Europeans re-created or adapted continental methods to new surroundings Since those earlier conventions tended to rely on regulation more than their colonial offspring did what emerged in early

America was a less fettered brand of capitalism By the nineteenth century this had evolved into a market economy that would not look too foreign to contemporary Americans To tell this complex transnational story of how our markets came to be Hart looks back farther than most historians of US capitalism rooting these markets in the norms of seventeenth and eighteenth century Britain Perhaps most important this is not a story of specific commodity markets over time but rather is a history of the trading spaces themselves the physical sites in which the grubby work of commerce occurred and where the market itself was born

Capacity Mechanisms in the EU Energy Markets Leigh Hancher,Adrien de Hauteclouque,Kaisa Huhta,Malgorzata Sadowska,2022-10-13 Capacity remuneration mechanisms or simply capacity mechanisms have become a fact of life in member states energy markets and are one of the hottest topics in the wider European regulatory debate Concerned about the security of electricity supply national governments are implementing subsidy schemes to encourage investment in conventional power generation capacity alongside already heavily subsidized renewable energy sources With the increasingly connected European electricity markets the introduction of a capacity mechanism in one country not only tends to distort its national market but may also have unforeseeable consequences for neighbouring electricity markets As these mechanisms are adopted by member states with limited supra national coordination as well as consideration for the cross border impact they tend to cause serious market distortions and put the future of the European internal electricity market at risk This second edition will take stock of how capacity mechanisms have actually worked so far and consider the consequences they have for the European internal electricity market It will include a detailed overview of national capacity mechanisms their implications for the EU internal market and will outline the nature of market failures which are likely to occur in the European electricity markets This edition is intended to serve as a point of reference for regulators and policy makers on how to design optimal capacity mechanisms in Europe It will be an invaluable resource for anyone interested in energy market design regulation and competition issues

Platelets as Immune Cells in Physiology and Immunopathology Olivier Garraud,2016-01-05 Are platelets cells Not everyone agrees since they are non nucleate And if platelets are cells which all specialists consider at the time being are they immune cells The issue that platelets participate in immunity is no longer debated however the issue that they are key cells in immunity is challenged It has even been proposed a couple of years ago that platelets can present antigen to T lymphocytes by using their HLA class I molecules No one has the same functional definition of platelets The Frontiers Research Topic coordinators own view is that platelets are primarily repairing cells what they do in deploying tools of physiological inflammation This function is better acknowledged as primary hemostasis i e platelet adherence to injured or wounded vessels followed by activation aggregation and constitution of the initial clot Platelets would thus repair damaged vascular endothelium so doing as they patrol to detect damages they sense danger along the vascular arborescence As the latter is immense platelets get close to tissues which are not allowed to them under physiological conditions but are readily accessible in pathology Platelets are equipped with a variety of Pathogen

Recognition Receptors such as TLRs they have a complete signalosome which is functional until the phosphorylation of NFkB they have been proved to retro transcribe RNA and synthesize de novo proteins etc Platelets participate to inflammation along the whole spectrum from physiological tissue repair healing to acute severe inflammation as can be seen in e g sepsis In general platelets engage complex interactions with most infectious pathogens We propose there to cover those topics from physiology to pathology that put platelets within cells that not only take place in but also are key players of innate immunity The relation of platelets with adaptive immunity is even more complex Not everyone is convinced that platelets present antigens however platelets influence adaptive immunity since they have mutual interactions with Dendritic cells Monocytes Macrophages and B lymphocytes the key players of antigen presentation they also have mutual interactions with T lymphocytes though this issue is less clearly deciphered We propose to also cover these topics or to present the forum There is another issue which is medically relevant speaking of physiology physiopathology this is fetal maternal incompatibility of platelet specific antigens the HPA system and the likely formation of maternal antibodies that often injure the newborn with risks of severe thrombocytopenia and intracranial hemorrhage We propose an update on this issue as well Last platelets are very special because they can be directly therapeutic by transfusion even when being offered by a generous blood donor displaying given genetic and phenotypic parameters to a patient recipient in need who also displays his/her own genetic and phenotypic parameters which for a large part differ from the donor's ones Besides immunization via mechanisms probably close to the fetal maternal platelet incompatibility but likely not similar transfusion has allowed the identification of the tremendous capacity of platelets to mediate inflammation we propose to conclude the Topics with this item forum

Cultural Studies 50 Years On Kieran Connell, Matthew Hilton, 2016-09-30 Stuart Hall conceptualized his time at the Centre for Contemporary Cultural Studies as a series of interruptions It was this fluidity that gave rise to Hall's conception of cultural studies as a moving target a fusion of a range of disciplinary approaches that was uniquely influenced by politics in the world beyond the academy The political commitments of those at the Centre were wide ranging and from its embrace of collective ways of research and decision making to its deployment of various strands of European Marxist theory had a critical impact on the Centre's working practices Yet as the diverse work of many of these same scholars has shown the political climate of the present day is almost unrecognizable from that of the mid 1960s to the mid 1980s arguably the most productive period in the Centre's history Cultural Studies 50 Years On explores how the political social and cultural contexts of the early 21st century influenced the object and method of doing cultural studies In bringing together a historical reassessment of the Centre with present day questions regarding the future of the field the aim is not to reduce cultural studies to the work of a single now defunct institution Instead it aims to utilize what is a critical moment in the trajectory of the field in order to take stock of where it has come from and to explore where it might be going Fair Shake Naomi Cahn, June Carbone, Nancy Levit, 2024-05-07 A stirring comprehensive look at the state of women in the workforce why

women's progress has stalled how our economy fosters unproductive competition and how we can fix the system that holds women back In an era of supposed great equality women are still falling behind in the workplace Even with more women in the workforce than in decades past wage gaps continue to increase It is the most educated women who have fallen the furthest behind Blue collar women hold the most insecure and badly paid jobs in our economy And even as we celebrate high profile representation women on the board of Fortune 500 companies and our first female vice president women have limited recourse when they experience harassment and discrimination Fair Shake Women and the Fight to Build a Just Economy explains that the system that governs our economy a winner take all economy is the root cause of these myriad problems The WTA economy self selects for aggressive cutthroat business tactics which creates a feedback loop that sidelines women The authors three legal scholars call this feedback loop the triple bind if women don't compete on the same terms as men they lose if women do compete on the same terms as men they're punished more harshly for their sharp elbows or actual misdeeds and when women see that they can't win on the same terms as men they take themselves out of the game if they haven't been pushed out already With odds like these stacked against them it's no wonder women feel like no matter how hard they work they can't get ahead Fair Shake is not a fix the woman book it's a fix the system book It not only diagnoses the problem of what's wrong with the modern economy but shows how with awareness and collective action we can build a truly just economy for all
