Donokov,2007 The Community College Labor Market Responsiveness CCLMR Initiative was created to develop and disseminate information and tools enabling community colleges to keep pace with the needs of a diverse student body and a dynamic labour market This report draws upon profiles Appendix B and statistical evidence Appendix C to describe the factors that affect labour market responsiveness First it examines the effects of the external environment the characteristics of local residents and the nature of the local economy Second it examines the effects of the external organisational structure the state and local community workforce education and economic development infrastructure Third it examines colleges external governance structures which affect their mission resource base and flexibility Finally it examines the effects of factors under the college s control presidential leadership internal organisation strategic planning to design and fund programs use of data and programmatic base Each stage in the progression has strong if not decisive effects on the successive stage and ultimately on each college s potential to be market responsive and the nature of the obstacles that need to be overcome to realise its potential. The progression is emphasised to make it clear that more should be expected of colleges located in environments that are favourable to development of labour market responsive programs than where external conditions are unfavourable, not that colleges in favourable environments should complacently compare themselves to colleges in less favourable environments. This emphasis also helps clarify what colleges can do regardless of their external environment to overcome obstacles to become more responsive and reach their own unique potential.
