Youth Activism in Environmental Politics, 2nd Edition Matt Henn, Sarah Pickard, 2023-02-02 Recently important new research has emerged to explain the large intergenerational cleavages in values and political preferences in many contemporary societies In most established democracies and many newer democracies young people are more likely to possess progressive values and are much more cosmopolitan in their outlook socially liberal accepting of cultural diversity and outward looking than older generations They tend to reject mainstream electoral politics and authoritarian nationalist forms of populism in favour of alternative progressive political parties and movements Indeed there is burgeoning evidence of a global tendency towards young people's support for and participation in new styles of non institutionalised political action that seem to better fit their life styles and to permit the actualisation of their political aspirations Although there is a considerable body of existing literature that examines the rise of such values and political participation preferences there is little work that focuses on the relationship with the prioritisation of environmental issues and environmental activism as evidenced in the September 2019 global climate strikes The goal of the current Research Topic is to explore the contemporary realities and patterns of youth participation in environmental politics in different societies As such we welcome manuscripts of original research and conceptualization that address the different practices of youth as they seek to effect environmental change and also their motivations for doing so Contributions are welcome from scholars youth practitioners and activists operating in a range of different settings and using diverse disciplinary and multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary perspectives

Annual Report San Francisco (Calif.). Office of the Controller, 1934 Belize International Monetary Fund. Western Hemisphere Dept., 2016-03-28 This paper discusses three important sectors of Belize economy financial sugar market and energy Belize's banking system has continued to strengthen since the 2014 Article IV Consultation in June 2014 Despite recent improvements some banks balance sheets are still weak and exposed to adverse macroeconomic developments The sugar sector makes a very important contribution to Belize's economy The sector is estimated to account for about 4.5 percent of GDP 9.10 percent of total exports 8 percent of employment and 5.6 percent of foreign exchange earnings But the reform of EU sugar regime scheduled to take full effect in 2017 will most likely cause a significant drop in the EU sugar price
