Activities you can do

1. Write down all the things you can grow (vegetables, flowers, fruits, etc.) on your largest leafy greens, and ask to add to it (this is a growing game that night).
2. Grow something (beans, corn, etc.) and count how many days it takes to grow (this is a growing game that night).
3. Grow a seedling in a pot (this is a growing game that night).

Activities you can do

Activity	Materials	Notes
 Spend five to fifteen minutes discussing the most important changes in your "big picture" strategies. Address the specific items on a worksheet or provide your group fifteen minutes of unstructured discussion. Then complete the survey on an individual level.
 Submit an individual worksheet or worksheet bundle with the changes that reflect your group's most meaningful goals and goals.
 Submit your group's ideas for the future? Include any other changes that you're considering for implementation? Address these changes directly on a survey template or provide a response. How can you tell if you succeed?

Key message

Activities you can do

- Think of a new or fun experience where you need to use what you know something about computers. Write it down in your target language. In this exercise, you can write something about something that you want to do.
- Write down something you did on this day. Consider as many details as you can. You can write something in French or in English (if you want).
- Then write down a reflection about whether you did it right or not. You can write about it in French or in English.
- Write a message about what activities you want to learn. Write it down in French or in English.
