In the context of buoyant research on second language acquisition (SLA), language learning motivation has remained one of the most active fields of inquiry for more than 60 years (Al Hoorie & MacIntyre, 2019; Ushioda, 2019). Several books have approached this topic from a range of perspectives (e.g., Dörnyei & Ushioda, 2021; Lamb et al., 2019; MacIntyre & Al Hoorie, 2020). However, the seemingly unceasing theoretical and methodological innovation in motivation research can be confusing, and it has become increasingly overwhelming to keep abreast of all the latest advancements in this burgeoning field. In response to this “promising” yet “perplexing” situation, Ali H. Al Hoorie and Fruzsina Szabó have edited the volume Researching language learning motivation: A concise guide, presenting a timely guidebook for both students and novice researchers to navigate their way through the journey of language learning motivation.

Contributed by both established and emerging experts in the realm of second language (L2) motivation, the volume consists of 21 chapters subsumed under five

Dialogue With Bakhtin on Second and Foreign Language Learning Joan Kelly Hall, Gergana Vitanova, Ludmila A. Marchenkova, 2004-12-13 This volume is the first to explore links between the Russian linguist Mikhail Bakhtin's theoretical insights about language and practical concerns with second and foreign language learning and teaching Situated within a strong conceptual framework and drawing from a rich empirical base it reflects recent scholarship in applied linguistics that has begun to move away from formalist views of language as universal autonomous linguistic systems and toward an understanding of language as dynamic collections of cultural resources According to Bakhtin the study of language is concerned with the dialogue existing between linguistic elements and the uses to which they are put in response to the conditions of the moment Such a view of language has significant implications for current understandings of second and foreign language learning The contributors draw on some of Bakhtin's more significant concepts such as dialogue utterance heteroglossia voice and addressivity to examine real world contexts of language learning The chapters address a range of contexts including elementary and university level English as a second language and foreign language classrooms and adult learning situations outside the formal classroom The text is arranged in two parts Part I Contexts of Language Learning and Teaching contains seven chapters that report on investigations into specific contexts of language learning and teaching The chapters in Part II Implications for Theory and Practice present broader discussions on second and foreign language learning using Bakhtin's ideas as a springboard for thinking This is a groundbreaking volume for scholars in applied linguistics language education and language studies with an interest in second and foreign language learning for teacher educators and for teachers of languages from elementary to university levels It is highly relevant as a text for graduate level courses in applied linguistics and second and foreign language education
