Life Sciences, Information Sciences Thierry Gaudin, Dominique Lacroix, Marie-Christine Maurel, Jean-Charles Pomerol, 2018-05-08 Developed from presentations given at the Cerisy SVSI Sciences de la vie sciences de l'information conference held in 2016 this book presents a broad overview of thought and research at the intersection of life sciences and information sciences The contributors to this edited volume explore life and information on an equal footing with each considered as crucial to the other In the first part of the book the relation of life and information in the functioning of genes at both the phylogenetic and ontogenetic levels is articulated and the common understanding of DNA as code is problematized from a range of perspectives The second part of the book homes in on the algorithmic nature of information questioning the fit between life and automaton and the accompanying division between individualization and invariance Consisting of both philosophical speculation and ethological research the explorations in this book are a timely intervention into prevailing understandings of the relation between information and life

Renegotiating Disciplinary Fields in the Life

Sciences Alessandro Minelli, 2021-02-24 Recent and ongoing debates in biology and the philosophy of biology reveal a widespread dissatisfaction with traditional explanatory frameworks There are also problems with the current definitions or circumscriptions of key concepts such as gene species and homology and even of whole disciplinary fields within the life sciences e g developmental biology These contrasting views are arguably a symptom of the need to revisit traditional unchallenged partitions between the specialist disciplines within the life sciences In the diversity of topics addressed and approaches to move beyond the current disciplinary organization the five essays in this volume will hopefully stimulate further exploration towards an improved articulation of life sciences
