

Cannabis World Journals began with the vision of being the inspiration for our readers to break the paradigms of fear and misinformation about the industry that, unfortunately, still haunt us. After this first year of hard work, we validate that we have the primary task of going beyond our boundaries and comfort zone to continue to objectively and responsibly inform our audience about the "Divine Gifts" of the plant to tear the veil of ignorance from people's eyes once and for all. We must reach out to everyone to let them know that the plant has a voice that demands, "I am here to stay."

So, what do we say to those who want to censor us? - "Not today."

We are light at the end of the tunnel, we are the green-colored truth, we are inspiration and objectivity, we are much more than when we started, and we are the threshold of information.

We are Cannabis World Journals.
