

IB Biology: Ecology Review [4.1-4.4]

NAME Mr. Gorbunov

2. What is missing from an ecosystem if I just list all the organisms found there?
- The abiotic (non-living) surroundings
3. What are all the organisms associated in an ecosystem called, together?

A Community

- Describe the purpose of quadrat sampling and how it is done.
- A way to estimate the size of a (nonmobile) population by random sampling.
- Quadrats (square frames) are randomly placed throughout a habitat and organisms are counted within each frame.
- Quadrat count is scaled up, proportional to habitat size.

4. Based on species frequency data, discuss the chi-squared test to determine if there is a significant association between these two species.

[illegible]

1. Draw a contingency table of observed values:

	Actual	HO Calculated
Severed	11	8
Not Severed	6	5
	17	13
		30 - grand total

- b. Calculated degrees of freedom: 1
- d. Determine the critical value: 3.84

6. Calculate the chi-squared value.

Expected Values:

1077

100

$$E_2 = \frac{1.57}{2.0} = 0.785$$

$$E_T = \frac{11.4 \times 10^5}{2.5} = 4.56 \times 10^5$$

- f. Explain whether there is a significant association. No significant association exists since the χ^2 value is less than the critical value (3.84).

3. Where does energy come from on the equator? What happens to it as it goes passed through the food web?

Sunlight is the initial energy source for most ecosystems. Energy flows through food chains by consumption, but is also lost along the way (see #6).

6. What are nutrients? What happens to them as they get passed through the food web?

Nutrients are molecules organisms need to live and grow. Nutrients move through food chains by consumption and are recycled back into the soil for producers, by decomposers, once organisms die.

7. Is it time to roll back the number of people in an ecosystem can support? Draw an accuracy-based model paired with four ways to support your answer.

Since ~90% of energy is lost in transition between each trophic level due to (1) heat loss from respiration, (2) material not consumed, digested, or assimilated, (3) excretion

- a. Complete the true/false with definitions and examples of each type of feeding strategy:
