A. Ivanov, 2019-10-09 Portal through Mathematics is a collection of puzzles and problems mostly on topics relating to secondary mathematics The problems and topics are fresh and interesting and frequently surprising One example the puzzle that asks how much length must be added to a belt around the Earth's equator to raise it one foot has probably achieved old chestnut status Ivanov after explaining the surprising answer to this question goes a step further and asks if you grabbed that too long belt at some point and raised it as high as possible how high would that be The answer to that is more surprising than the classic puzzle's answer The book is organized into 29 themes each a topic from algebra geometry or calculus and each launched from an opening puzzle or problem There are excursions into number theory solid geometry physics and combinatorics Always there is an emphasis on surprise and delight And every theme begins at a level approachable with minimal background requirements With well over 250 puzzles and problems there is something here sure to appeal to everyone Portal through Mathematics will be useful for prospective secondary teachers of mathematics and may be used as a supplementary resource in university courses in algebra geometry calculus and discrete mathematics It can also be used for professional development for teachers looking for inspiration However the intended audience is much broader Every fan of mathematics will find enjoyment in it

A Collection of Contributions in Honour of Jack van Lint P.J. Cameron, H.C.A. van Tilborg, 2016-06-06 This collection of contributions is offered to Jack van Lint on the occasion of his sixtieth birthday and appears simultaneously in the series Topics in Discrete Mathematics and as a special double volume of Discrete Mathematics Volumes 106-107 It is hoped that the papers selected all written by experts in their own fields represent the many interesting areas that together constitute the discipline of Discrete Mathematics It is in this sphere that van Lint has become the acknowledged master and this expansive volume serves to demonstrate the enormous significance he has had on the development of Discrete Mathematics during the last 30 years

Readings in Computer Vision Martin A. Fischler, Oscar Firschein, 1987-06 The field of computer vision combines techniques from physics mathematics psychology artificial intelligence and computer science to examine how machines might construct meaningful descriptions of their surrounding environment The editors of this volume prominent researchers and leaders of the SRI International AI Center Perception Group have selected sixty papers most published since 1980 with the viewpoint that computer vision is concerned with solving seven basic problems Reconstructing 3D scenes from 2D images Decomposing images into their component parts Recognizing and assigning labels to scene objects Deducing and describing relations among scene objects Determining the nature of computer architectures that can support the visual function Representing abstractions in the world of computer memory Matching stored descriptions to image representation Each chapter of this volume addresses one of these problems through an introductory discussion which identifies major ideas and summarizes approaches and through reprints of key research papers Two appendices on crucial assumptions in image interpretation and on parallel architectures for vision applications a glossary of technical terms and a comprehensive bibliography and index complete the volume
