Stoyanova, 2008-01-01 This innovative study of the role of competition law in the telecommunications industry starts from a classic perspective While in principle regulation benefits social welfare and efficient allocation of resources past regulatory experience shows that regulation can be flawed and lead to welfare harm rather than good In the telecommunications industry specifically inappropriately designed sector specific remedies and regulatory delays in the introduction of new telecommunications services can hold up the development of the market towards effective competition and could incur considerable welfare losses In addition conventional antitrust analysis still lags behind the dynamic nature of the electronic communications markets Milena Stoyanova sets out to establish a new understanding of the role of sector specific regulation and competition law enforcement in the electronic communications sector addressing such questions as the following and Why a new regulatory framework and Are sectoral regulation and competition law enforcement mutually exclusive or complementary and Why should electronic communications markets be regulated to conform to competition law principles and What does competition law add to sector specific regulation and What is the relationship or proportion between regulation and competition law enforcement An overview of the telecommunications liberalization process initiated at European Community level reveals such problems as a divergent approach of national regulatory authorities in the application of one and the same norms inability of competition authorities to rightly assess the technicalities underlying a competition problem and difficulty in carrying out a periodical oversight of compliance with the competition law remedies The author discusses the legal basis and rationale for the application of the essential facility doctrine to the electronic communications sector and argues for new regulatory responses to the emergence of collective dominant firms in an oligopolistic setting and to the potential of multifirm conduct to restrict competition through price squeezing and other tactics The book concludes with a specific case study on the harmonisation of recent Bulgarian legislation with the European

Community sector specific and competition law regimes and propos the electronic communications sector Effective competition in the electronic communications market is crucial for securing the dynamic role of the entire information and communications technologies sector of which electronic communications form the largest segment The sound and well informed recommendations in this book ably address common and persistent problems making Competition Problems in Liberalized Telecommunications a forward looking mainstay for practitioners and other professionals involved in all aspects of the field

Market Power in EU Antitrust Law Luis Ortiz Blanco, 2011-12-02 The notion of market power is central to antitrust law Under EU law antitrust rules refer to appreciable restrictions of competition Article 101 1 Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union TFEU ex Article 81 1 EC Treaty the elimination of competition for a substantial part of the market Article 101 3 TFEU ex Article 81 3 EC dominant positions Article 10 2 TFEU ex Article 82 EC and substantial impediment to effective competition in particular by creating or reinforcing a dominant position Article 2 of the EU Merger Regulation At first sight only the concept of dominant position relates to market power but it is the aim of this book to demonstrate that the other concepts are directly linked to the notion of market power This is done by reference to the case law of the EU Courts and the precedents of the European Commission The author goes on to argue that for very good reasons clarity and enforceability among others the rules should be interpreted in this way Beginning with market definition the book reviews the different rules and the different degrees of market power they incorporate Thus it analyses the notion of appreciable restriction of competition to find a moderate market power obtained by agreement among competitors to be the benchmark for the application of Article 101 TFEU ex Article 81 EC It moves on to the concept of dominance under Article 102 TFEU ex Article 82 EC which is equivalent to substantial or significant market power and then focuses on the old and new tests for EU merger control Finally it addresses the idea of elimination of competition in respect of a substantial part of the market Article 101 3 TFEU ex Article 81 3 b EC in which the last two types of market power Article 102 TFEU ex Article 82 EC and EU Merger Regulation converge To exemplify this an in depth study of the notion of collective dominance is conducted The book concludes that a paradigm of market power exists under the EU antitrust rules that both fits with past practice and provides for a useful framework of analysis for the general application of the rules by administrative and even more importantly judicial authorities in the Member States under conditions of legal certainty The Power Report ,2004 J D Power and Associates automotive journal
