hormonal therapy or is DCIS cancer and treated with lumpectomy and radiation Several studies have been published where patients are managed with observation and treatment with hormonal therapy before surgical management New trials have already begun accruing patients with low to intermediate grade DCIS where patients will be managed with observation versus hormonal therapy only Management of DCIS continues to evolve and current management will be discussed This text will provide a concise but comprehensive summary of the current management of patients with atypical breast proliferative lesions and some benign breast lesions and will help guided management of these patients All chapters in this text will be written by experts in the field in each of these disease entities They will all include the most up to date research and clinical information to enhance our understanding and treatment of patients
