Alaska is Number One

by Deanne Okunome, RN

Alaska has one of the highest rates of STDs in the nation. According to a 2013 State of Alaska - Epidemiology Bulletin, Alaska has led the US alternating with having the first or second highest Chlamydia rate since 2000. The gonorrhea rate for 2013 in Alaska was 50% higher than the national rate. Additionally, Alaska is currently experiencing a significant syphilis outbreak which is being considered an epidemic. In reference to the syphilis outbreak, ANP Elizabeth Burns of the Municipality of Anchorage Reproductive Health Clinic states, "In 10 years of practice I have never seen so many cases."

USPHSPHoto Researchers Inc. Retrieved from <http://www.usphspphoto.com/image-collection/chlamydia-photos.htm>

In their efforts to decrease these threats to public health, the State of Alaska and the Department of Health and Human Services are in addition to past methods of outreach to the community mounting campaigns which purposefully target young persons and the MSM (men having sex with men) population, as these are the most at risk groups for GC/CT and Syphilis respectively. Some of the current approaches include campaigns such as Wrap It Up Alaska and Sunday Clinics. Additionally the Alaska Native Health Consortium has created the "Discovering"

Health Policy at Work

Wrap It Up Alaska is a campaign that is aimed at reducing STD rates in Alaska by educating people—especially young people—about STD treatment and prevention with a focus on getting them to see a doctor.

I know more (Discovering) is a program run by the Alaska Native Tribal Health Consortium with a goal of improving health outcomes among Alaska Native youth including reducing the rates of STDs. The purpose of "Discovering" is "to provide truthful and accurate information that youth can trust in order for them to be in control of their own health." "Discovering" also addresses other health care issues of concern to Alaska Native youth such as suicide prevention, pregnancy, dating violence, safety, healthy relationships and more. There is a sexual health hot service that allows individuals to ask any questions they may have about STDs and other sexual health questions by texting 43HEALTH to 313231. A response is received from health professionals within 24-48 hours. The site is open

Sex After Fifty

A Commentary by

Deanne K. B. Mayhew, RN, BS, ANP-C, MS

In December, I was given the opportunity to speak to our local senior circle about sexuality and aging. It was a delightful experience. I've recently made a greater effort to ask my patients open and honest questions about their sexual health concerns and I've generally had two responses. First, they say no one has ever asked them sexual health questions before and second, they are grateful that someone has finally broken the silence. I can't blame health care providers for feeling awkward; a recent interview I found indicated that the average physician gets about 3 hours of sexual health training throughout the course of medical school and residency. I can honestly say that nurse-practitioner students do not fare much better. We are not trained to have those difficult conversations.

I strongly believe that those of us who value sexuality as a part of our lives are entitled to experience healthy and pleasurable sex throughout the lifespan. There are exceptional sexual people and individuals who have decided to de-emphasize

The Veterans Treatment Court Movement Anne S. Douds, Eileen M. Ahlin, 2018-12-07 The Veterans Treatment Court Movement provides a comprehensive empirical analysis of the burgeoning veteran s court movement from genesis through to operation and concluding with comments on its societal relevance Beginning with the unlikely convergence of therapeutic jurisprudence with the oft misunderstood warrior ethos that undergirds the entire movement the text examines every component of veterans courts weighing the cultural legal and practical strengths and limitations of these programs Each chapter assesses key components of the court including the participants law enforcement judges prosecution defense counsel court administration data management the Veterans Justice Outreach Officer VJO probation mentors and the community The book concludes with recommendations on how these courts can further integrate with communities maximize efficiency and improve The book shows how veterans courts seek to serve veterans legal social and psychological needs and how they serve more than just offending veterans by allowing law abiding veterans many of whom suffered greatly when they transitioned out of military service to exorcize their own demons and integrate their experiences into a socially recognized system of care

Incorporating program evaluation with sociological considerations this monograph offers a comprehensive considered examination of how and why these courts operate and provides a foundation for future development The volume provides essential background for scholars studying law and the criminal courts as well as policymakers judges academics students and practitioners concerned with effective jurisprudence
