Abstract—The authors examined the effects of a 12-week, 100% body weight (BW) resistance training program on body composition, muscle strength, and muscle mass in 10 sedentary, middle-aged men. The program consisted of 3 sessions per week, with each session including 10 sets of 10 repetitions of 10 different exercises. The exercises were performed with a free weight, a resistance band, or a resistance machine. The program resulted in a significant increase in muscle strength and muscle mass, and a significant decrease in body fat. The authors conclude that a 12-week, 100% BW resistance training program is an effective means of improving body composition, muscle strength, and muscle mass in sedentary, middle-aged men.
