Academic Business Studies June Exam Memorandum 2015:

Republic of Armenia International Monetary Fund. Middle East and Central Asia Dept.,2015-03-11 This 2014 Article IV Consultation highlights that after a steady recovery during 2010-12 from the deep 2009 recession Armenia's growth softened in 2013 and has remained subdued in 2014. The softening of economic activity has been broad based as growth of exports and remittances slowed and government spending was lower than budgeted. Construction, which had declined since the 2009 crisis, was relatively flat. Growth is projected at 2.6 percent in 2014 and is expected to increase only gradually in 2015 and over the medium term in light of expectations of slow growth in key trading partners. The authorities' policies remain geared toward maintaining macroeconomic stability and fostering sustainable and inclusive growth. Statutes and Ordinances of the University of Cambridge 2015 University of Cambridge,2015-10-08 The official Statutes and Ordinances of the University of Cambridge. Asian Development Outlook 2015 Asian Development Bank,2015-03-01 The Asian Development Outlook 2015 projects that developing Asia will grow at a steady 6.3% in 2015 and 2016 supported by a strengthening recovery in the major industrial economies and soft global commodity prices. The drop in international oil prices is taking pressure off of consumer prices. Inflation will slow from 3.1% in 2014 to 2.6% in 2015. As low oil prices are supporting growth in developing Asia, a sudden sharp reversal could undermine the outlook and require policy response. Similarly, while capital inflows to the region have been beneficial for growth, policy makers must carefully manage credit expansion to ensure that it does not lead to excessive leverage and asset price bubbles. Developing Asia needs a deep, robust financial sector to sustain growth. Policy makers will be challenged to ensure that financial sector development is inclusive, providing broad access to households and firms. Financial stability must also be maintained to enhance growth and equity.
