Section 1: Reading

Passage 1: Fiction

The following excerpt is from a 20th-century novel, in which a young woman, Clara, has returned to her childhood home after many years away.

Clara stood in the front yard, her fingers brushing the tops of overgrown lavender bushes. The scent rose in the summer heat, thick with memory. Inside the house, nothing had changed. The wallpaper still curled at the edges, the hallway light glimmered when she turned it on. Her grandmother's ticking clock remained behind the door, its hands crossed like arms. Clara paused, overwhelmed not by grief but by the stark sense that time had passed in her absence.

1. What is the primary purpose of the passage?

A. To explore Clara's family history

B. To depict a moment of personal reflection

C. To introduce a mysterious conflict

D. To describe a childhood experience

Answer: B

Explanation: The passage focuses on Clara's emotional and sensory experience of returning, reflecting on memory and time.

2. Which detail best supports the idea that time has "passed" in Clara's absence?
