The Paradox of Hope Justin D. Klassen, 2011-11-14 In contemporary public discourse the supposedly comprehensive explanatory power of reason is used to justify a thoroughgoing suspicion of religion In recent decades the critiques of postmodernism have generated a different kind of suspicion by construing history as a process that is too arbitrary to be narrated either by modern reason or by religion In light of these developments a question arises regarding the appropriate theological response to such forms of suspicion both of which threaten not just religion but our sense of human agency as such Does the retrieval of a meaningful religious subjectivity in a climate of suspicion demand a renewed emphasis upon theology's rhetorical persuasiveness as Radical Orthodoxy has recently proposed Or does identifying the believing subject with theology's grammar fail to attend to some of the challenges posed by such suspicion The Paradox of Hope answers these questions in an original and provocative way by clarifying the complex relationship between post secular theology and the work of Soren Kierkegaard Ultimately Klassen argues that Kierkegaard's influence is crucial albeit obscured in current post secular theological imperatives and that the Dane's eschewal of persuasion in favor of hope's inexplicable resolve provides a more adequate response to the nihilism of contemporary suspicion than do the rhetorical proposals currently on offer In light of this argument The Paradox of Hope also rehabilitates some of the voices typically excluded by contemporary theology's rhetoric including those of Heidegger Derrida and Levinas
