Saturday Review of Politics, Literature, Science and Art ,1869 'Our Magnificent Fabrick' Sarah Brown, 2003 For a period of almost five hundred years York Minster resembled a building site as different parts were added and altered before it finally became the building we see today This detailed study of the construction and development of the minster draws on architectural recording carried out on the building by the RCHME and English Heritage since the early 1970s as well as more recent discoveries and research particularly on the stained glass windows Each major building phase is discussed in turn the construction of the transept the Chapter House the nave Lady Chapel western choir and central tower The historical background to these phases reveals some of the financial political and religious events that hampered and or motivated the building phases and this and issues of imagery and patronage are all discussed The Athenaeum ,1859 Building News ,1876 The History of the University of Oxford: Volume VII: Nineteenth-Century Oxford, Part 2 M. G. Brock, M. C. Curthoys, 2000-11-16 Volume VII of The History of the University of Oxford completes the survey of nineteenth century Oxford begun in Volume VI After 1871 both teachers and students at Oxford were freed from tests of religious belief The volume describes the changed mental climate in which some dons sought a new basis for morality while many undergraduates found a compelling ideal in the ethic of public service both at home and in the empire As the existing colleges were revitalized and new ones founded the academic profession in Oxford developed a peculiarly local form centred upon college tutors who stood in somewhat uneasy relation with the University's professors The various disciplines which came to form the undergraduate curriculum in both the arts and sciences are subject to major reappraisal and Oxford's hidden curriculum is explored through accounts of student life and institutions including organized sport and the Oxford

Union New light is shed on the social origins and previous schooling of undergraduates A fresh assessment is made of the movement to establish women s higher education in Oxford and the strategies adopted by its promoters to implant communities for women within the masculine culture of an ancient university Other widened horizons are traced in accounts of the University s engagement with imperial expansion social reform and the educational aspirations of the labour movement as well as the transformation of its press into a major international publisher The architectural developments considerable in quantity and highly varied in quality receive critical appraisal in a comprehensive survey of the whole period covered by Volumes VI and VII 1800 1914 By the early twentieth century the challenges of socialism and democracy together with the demand for national efficiency gave rise to a renewed campaign to address issues such as promoting research abolishing compulsory Greek and more generally broadening access to the University Under the terrible test of the First World War still more deep seated concerns were raised about the sider effects of Oxford s educational practices and the volume concludes with some reflections on the directions which the University had taken over the previous fifty years series blurb No private institutions have exerted so profound an influence on national life over the centuries as the universities of Oxford and Cambridge Few universities in the world have matched their intellectual distinction and none has evolved and maintained over so long a period a strictly comparable collegiate structure Now a completely new and full scale History of the University of Oxford from its obscure origins in the twelfth century until the late twentieth century has been produced by the university with the active support of its constituent colleges Drawing on extensive original research as well as on the centuries old tradition of the study of the rich source material the History is altogether comprehensive appearing in eight chronologically arranged volumes Together the volumes constitute a coherent overall study yet each has a unity of its own under individual editorship and brings together the work of leading scholars in the history of every university discipline and of its social institutional economic and political development as well as its impact on national and international life The result is a history not only more authoritative than any previously produced for Oxford but more ambitious than any undertaken for any other European university and certain to endure for many generations to come The Athenæum ,1850 The Year 1300 and the Creation of a New European Architecture Alexandra Gajewski,Zoë Opačić,2007 The theme of the book is the origin of Late Gothic architecture in Europe around the year 1300 It was then that Gothic ecclesiastical architecture graduated from a largely French into a wholly European phenomenon with new centres of art production Cologne Florence York Prague Krakow and newly empowered institutions kings the higher nobility towns and friars Profound changes in spiritual and devotional life had a lasting effect on the relationship between architecture and liturgy In short architecture around 1300 became at once more cosmopolitan and more heterogeneous The book addresses these radical changes on their own terms as an international phenomenon By bringing together specialists in art architecture and liturgy from many parts of Europe and from the USA it aims to employ their separate expertise and to integrate each into a broader European perspective Dr Zoe Opacic is lecturer in the history and theory of architecture at Birkbeck College University of London She specialises in the field of late medieval architecture and art particularly in Central Europe Dr Alexandra Gajewski FSA is visiting assistant professor at the University of Michigan Ann Arbor She works on Burgundian Gothic architecture and on Cistercian art in medieval France and the Empire Official Descriptive and Illustrated Catalogue Great Exhibition (1851, London),1851 Critic and Literary World ,1890 THE CLOISTERS.
