contribution to the IPCC Sixth Assessment Report provides a comprehensive and transparent assessment of the literature on climate change mitigation. The report assesses progress in climate change mitigation options for reducing emissions and enhancing sinks. With greenhouse gas emissions at the highest levels in human history, this report provides options to achieve net zero as pledged by many countries. The report highlights for the first time the social and demand side aspects of climate mitigation and assesses the literature on human behaviour, lifestyle and culture and its implications for mitigation action. It brings a wide range of disciplines, notably from the social sciences, within the scope of the assessment. IPCC reports are a trusted source for decision makers, policymakers and stakeholders at all levels: international, regional, national, local and in all branches: government, businesses, NGOs. Land and Liberty II David Saxe, 2006-09. His book presents the basics of traditional American history: basic lessons, essential truths and principles, definitions of liberty and freedom, establishment of citizenship, education and understandings of the Declaration of Independence and U.S. Constitution. Land and Liberty is part one of the American History Project, a program devoted to the revival of traditional American history in American schools, colleges and universities.

Students as Historians, Scott K. Scheuerell, 2024-07-30. Students as Historians: Using Technology to Examine Local History Beyond the Classroom makes a case for using technology to further the research of local history. Part 1 of the book explores the history of Black people in communities across the nation, while Part 2 uses census reports, Google Earth and other materials to investigate. One example includes Western Missouri on the eve of the Civil War. Part 3 involves design-based research in a social studies classroom where students investigated the history of Mobile, AL during the Civil Rights movement using technology. Throughout the book, the Inquiry Design Model (IDM) is emphasized and implemented.

Secret Native American Pathways Thomas E. Mails, 1988. Thomas E. Mails draws upon his extensive knowledge of Native American history and ceremony to present ways of applying Native teachings to today's lifestyles.

Making Seafood Sustainable Mansel G. Blackford, 2011-12-30. In the spring of 2007, National Geographic warned: "The oceans are in deep blue trouble. From the northernmost reaches of the Greenland Sea to the swirl of the Antarctic Circle, we are gutting our seas of fish. There were legitimate grounds for concern. After increasing more than fourfold between 1950 and 1994, the global wild fish catch reached a plateau and stagnated despite exponential growth in the fishing industry. As numerous scientific reports showed, many fish stocks around the world collapsed, creating a genuine global overfishing crisis." Making Seafood Sustainable analyzes the ramifications of overfishing for the United States by investigating how fishers, seafood processors, retailers, government officials and others have worked together to respond to the crisis. Historian Mansel G. Blackford examines how these players took steps to make fishing in some American waters, especially in Alaskan waters, sustainable. Critical to these efforts, Blackford argues, has been government and industry collaboration in formulating and enforcing regulations. What can be learned from these successful experiences? Are they applicable elsewhere? What are the drawbacks? Making Seafood Sustainable addresses these questions.

and suggests that sustainable seafood management can be made to work The economic and social costs incurred in achieving sustainable resource usage are significant but there are ways to mitigate them More broadly this study illustrates ways to manage commonly held natural resources around the world land water oil and so on in sustainable ways Changing the Face of Engineering John Brooks Slaughter, Yu Tao, Willie Pearson, 2015-12-15 The underrepresentation of African Americans in STEM fields in general and in engineering in particular according to John Slaughter is at best benign neglect and at worst active discrimination In one of the first broad based studies of the African American experience in engineering Slaughter and his coeditors set out to describe the problem and propose workable solutions in the form of education and public policy initiatives In this book twenty four eminent scholars address this shortfall from a wide variety of disciplinary angles They draw insight from robust statistical analyses and contextualized analyses grounded in personal narratives of African American engineers and instructors at a diverse set of research institutions with evidenced based approaches to their success in graduating African American engineers This definitive volume will certainly be of interest to scholars and policymakers The American Psychiatric Publishing Textbook of Geriatric Neuropsychiatry Norman L.
