

USING A MANNEQUIN

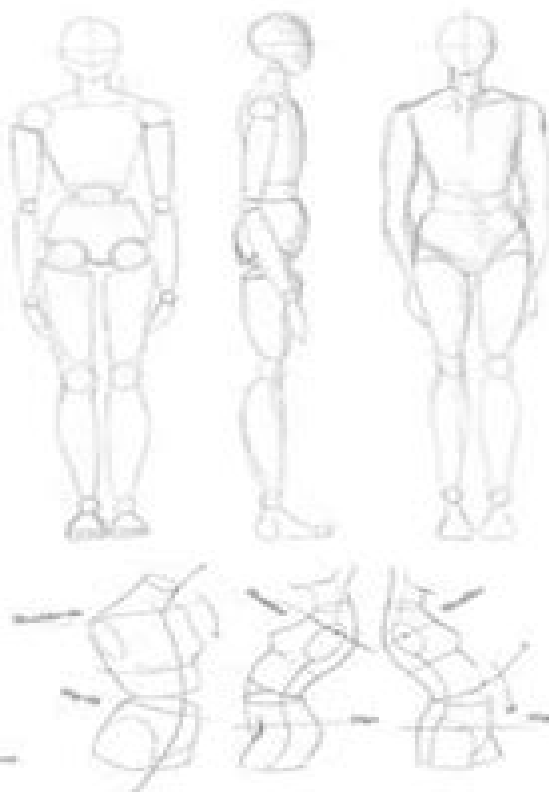

A mannequin (also called a model or dummy, for figure or dress forms) is an often articulated doll used for artistic, fashion, developmental, anatomical and other purposes in design or in education.

The artist/mannequin already handles some of the body's basic shapes, rounded, geometric shapes. The mannequin will have some degree of volume loss if you are putting your mannequin in different poses and poses drawing is. If you are adding a drawing mannequin, it can be helpful as you a mannequin to provide specific poses that you find particularly difficult.

Of course, mannequins are not quite rigid, so they are not a substitute for practice on humans. The key point of the step and drawing life of the figure (or character) is to be able to make your figure more realistic.

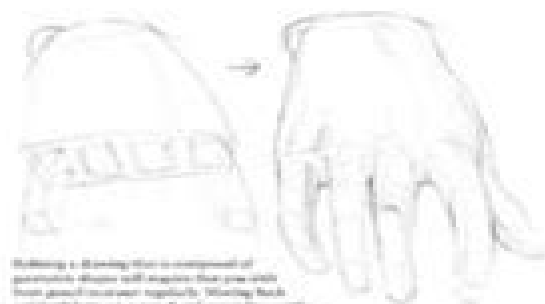

Constructing head and neck

PRACTICE DRAWING SHAPES

Commonly shapes of all kinds can be used to construct almost any complex object. You can use them to create a variety of shapes, while a variety of shapes will suffice to construct all the necessary shapes for a figure.

Building a drawing that is composed of geometric shapes will require that you start from a point and move together. Working back and forth between a point and a point is a good practice. However, when you move back and forth to these points, you will see the line. When the point, you are working, the whole shape is complete, adding the line to the whole shape of the drawing, moving from one point to another, then spending time to see the line.

DRAWING FEET

Using shapes to help you construct a drawing that is useful in constructing the foot, looking like:

DRAWING A HEAD STARTS WITH A CIRCLE, AN oval, AND A CROSS

- The circle represents the skull when the face is shown.
- The oval is the front of the face (and jaw).
- The cross is the middle of the face, and the point is the nose when the face is shown.
- Another oval can be added to show the side of the head when the face is shown.
